Indecision rules students' minds

Confusion. Look around you. It's everywhere. It can be the feeling you get when you're lost in a crowd or when you're not sure about where you're headed. It can come when you're feeling hemmed in and pressured by parents, teachers and friends. If your mind is ruled by indecision, you may feel confused. Trying to decide what to believe in and which stand to take on issues, such as Watergate, the pardon of Nixon, amnesty and which candidates to support in elections, can be confusing. While you're looking for a place to fit in and trying to find a sense of belonging, it's natural for you to be confused. So if you feel this way, don't think you're the only one. Almost everyone feels confused at one time or another. But there are ways to escape from some of this CONFUSION.

STUDENTS CONGREGATE IN the halls and foyer each morning before school to meet and talk with friends.

MR. BILL LEEKE, industrial arts instructor, works shoulder to shoulder with senior Jim Ludlum on architectural drafting.

STUDENTS MAKE THE daily rush to talk with friends and still have time to make their buses.

MR. H. LLOYD COOPER brought many changes to Warren Central, one of which was his interest and involvement with students.

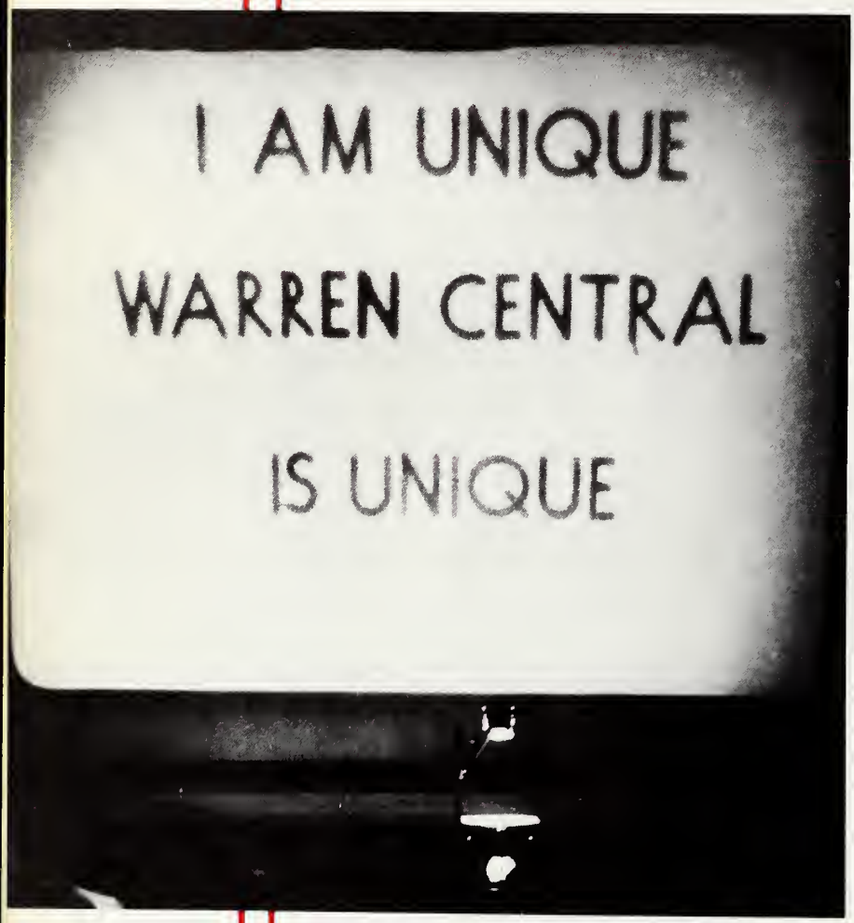
New procedures designed to help Warren denizens

Confusion was quite obvious at the beginning of the school year. New policies, some as a result of the new administration, helped cause confusion. Procedures undergoing changes included the shortening of the day, attendance, stricter disciplinary procedures, charges for schedule changes, payment of book rental, increased variety in food in the cafeteria and the 51 courses offered in the phase-elective English program. Many students felt the pains of overcrowding, with a student body of 2,532, the largest number ever enrolled at Warren Central. Crowded halls, new responsibilities and trying to locate rooms were enough to confuse both old and new students during the first few days. The 10 new educators, including the principal, also may have felt confused themselves as well as having caused their students CONFUSION.

TRYING THE "PACER Lunch," a new feature in the cafeteria's presentation of food, Susan Easton, sophomore, munches on a deluxe hamburger.

THE FIVE DOLLAR fee for schedule changes kept many students from changing their minds about classes at the last minute.

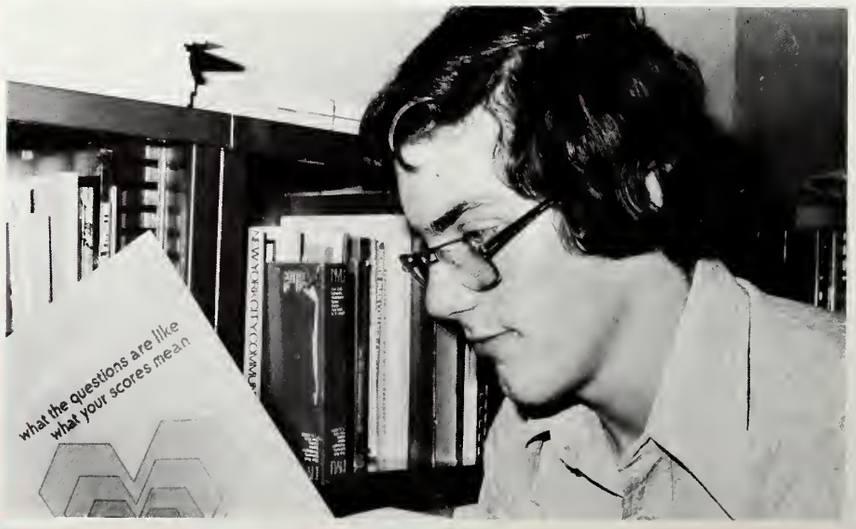
New activities add zest to life at Warren



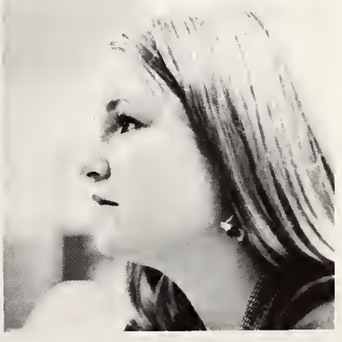
More convocations and activity periods, new additions this year at Warren Central, gave the appearance of confusion, because for the first time, students were given the freedom to roam the halls. The activity periods were sort of a coffee break for students, in that they were able to purchase Cokes and food, attend club meetings during school hours, gather informally with friends or study. Assignments and tests made some students feel unprepared and confused. The spirit and screaming crowds at athletic events may have appeared confusing to some students. Homecoming added several new activities, which included certain apparel on certain days, a dance, floats, the parade and a pep session. Inner confusion existed in the minds of many, as seniors were faced with decisions, such as marriage, if and where to go to college and what kind of a career to choose, all of which would greatly affect the rest of their lives. But gradually people found ways to get away from the CONFUSION.

PRINCIPAL H. LLOYD Cooper used this as part of a slide presentation in the school's first convocation of the year.

SCREAMING FANS AT the Homecoming game show a revival of school spirit and enthusiasm at Warren Central.



JUNIOR DAVE SHADDAY looks at information about the SAT tests, one aspect of preparing for college.



VARIOUS LOOKS ARE displayed by these senior students. Randy Phillips is deeply involved in a class lecture, while John Maci appears to be thinking of other things. Dianne Payne displays a look of knowledge and Vicki Schmedel listens intently to a poem.

In today's confusion, you look for your own place in the world. Through school, people try to find their place through activities, friends, sports, classes and self-expression. Gradually order appears and you begin to better understand yourself. This marks the beginning of the end of CONFUSION.

'Just You 'N' Me'

Students prepare for the Junior Prom way in advance. The setting for last year's dance was the Columbia Club on Monument Circle. The George Nickoloff Band provided the musical entertainment for the dance on April 19, with the theme "Just You 'N' Me." Formal attire was worn as a part of Warren Central prom tradition.

JO ELLEN SMITH, 1973 Queen, and Campbell McLaren, 1973 King, join in the festivities before retiring their positions.

SPECIAL GUEST STAR, Bart Ping, 1972 graduate, entrances his audience by singing several songs he wrote himself.

DENIS WILCOXEN, JUNIOR, dramatizes his own song, "I Love Trash."

W. C. Follies plays to jam-packed, receptive house

The 1974 W. C. Follies, under the direction of graduates Wendy White and Margo Buchannan, turned out to be a great success with a jam-packed audience.

Comedy acts included "False Witness News" and "Liberated Broadcast," plus several singing acts and "The Talent Show." Between each performance, there were transitions put on by students also. The between act performances were a combination of short skits, music and comedy.

GINA CHERRY, SENIOR, adds to the beauty of "The Barber Shop Quartet," featuring Russell Uhls, Howard Foster, Pat McMonigle and Dave Short, all 1974 graduates.

Cast's enthusiasm contributes to success

Preparation for the 1974 musical, "Li'l Abner," began early in January in the form of casting and rehearsals. The total cost of the production, sponsored jointly by the Drama and Music departments, was $2,700. Attending the three evening performances was a total of 2,500 people. Included in the cast were several live animals, including a pig and a pony.

Mr. Thomas Feit, director, commented that he felt the show brought out the talents of many seniors not only in acting but also in producing because leading roles and committee chairmen positions were all held by seniors.

Two things contributed to making "Li'l Abner" a success, Mr. Feit believed. The large attendance was due to the fact that "Li'l Abner" is a well known show and, perhaps most important, the cast truly enjoyed putting on the show.

MEN OF DOGPATCH, Ken King, Mike Krauthammer and Bob Matthews, juniors, ponder the reasons for the evacuation of the town with Abner.

DAISY MAE (JUDIE McCall) pleads with Dr. Finsdale (John Price) not to force the citizens of Dogpatch to leave their home.

LI'L ABNER SHOWS his masculinity off to his competitor for Daisy Mae, Earth Quake McGoon, played by Doug Winings, graduate.

SHARING A FEW tender moments are Daisy Mae and Li'l Abner as they think about the pros and cons of marriage. Both actors are 1974 graduates.

LOWER RIGHT: GRADUATE Doug Johnson whizzes past his opponent and pumps for a victory.

TERRI POTTS, GRADUATE, vigorously pedals toward the finish line in one of the three races for the senior girls' teams.

MAKING THE SWITCH, Mr. Jerry Stauffer, guidance counselor, grabs the handle bars of the bike to take up where Mr. Ken Wilson, English teacher, leaves off.

Seniors! On your mark! Get set! Go!

MR. JAY WARD, English teacher, broadcasts announcements as senior girls get ready to begin the race.

EAGERLY AWAITING THE sound of the gun are graduates John Harmas, Dave Short and Brad Thomas.

Rainy weather delayed the scheduled Bike and Trike Races, sponsored by the Speech and Debate teams, from May 19, to May 22, 1974.

After the events finally got underway, 15 teams of senior boys and one faculty team battled for a victory in the Bike Race. Dale Stetina, senior, led the winning team by pedaling 43 out of 46 laps to capture the first place in this event.

The Trike Race consisted of almost 20 teams of six senior girls each. The girls went six laps on a relay course, but teacher Larry Kelley's team pulled out in the lead for the win.

Working students see supplemental incomes

FRYING HAMBURGERS IS a way of life for many students. Jeff Wyn, senior, demonstrates at a local restaurant.

OUNCES MEAN MONEY in senior Jim Fechtman's line of work. Making sure customers receive the amount of candy they pay for is part of Jim's responsibilities.

As inflation goes up and allowances stay the same, students at Warren Central are acquiring part-time jobs to help cover the costs of dates, personal items, school activities, hobbies and food.

Although money is the number one reason for obtaining a job, there are also other important advantages. Jobs teach a strong sense of responsibility and also give students the experience of dealing with many different types of people that are not found in the classroom. It is also an excellent opportunity for students to gain new and lasting friendships.

But along with advantages, come disadvantages. Many times a student will be scheduled to work the same time as an important school activity, such as Homecoming or proms. Late hours also can be a big drawback. After working all evening, a student is too tired to do homework. This situation creates the problem of deciding what should come first—a job or school.

EXPLAINING PRICES AND showing different styles of wallets to graduate Bruce Walton, senior Valle Good tries to help him make a decision.

Members of AP, radio and TV vote Watergate as top news story

In their annual poll, editors and news directors of Associated Press and radio and TV stations, selected Watergate and three other related news items among the 10 top stories of 1974. The three were Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon, the Democratic sweep in the November elections and Nelson Rockefeller's nomination for vice president of the United States. Besides Watergate the top 10 stories in order of their selection, were Economy—Inflation rose above 10 per cent and the business decline which began in January became a recession by fall.

Energy crisis—The oil embargo ended in March but the cost of petroleum continued to rise steadily.

Patricia Hearst was kidnapped by the Symbionese Liberation Army and later became a member in the guerilla group.

President Gerald Ford, on September 8, gave former President Nixon a "free, full and absolute pardon" in regard to the Watergate scandal.

In the November elections, the Democrats took nearly every office.

Number seven of the list was Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's effort toward a peace agreement in the Middle East.

Draft resistors and deserters of the Vietnam war period were granted conditional amnesty by President Ford.

The eruption in Cyprus—The Greek-sponsored coup against President Makarios led to the invasion of the island by Turks.

Ford's nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller plus the disclosure of Rockefeller's wealth and gift-giving were the last stories of 1974 to be chosen in the top 10.

Exhibition of various attire given by students during Homecoming week

ANNE HOFFMAN GAZES dreamingly at Mike Fetzer. This typical senior couple of the '50s could have been found all around Warren on "Nostalgia Day".

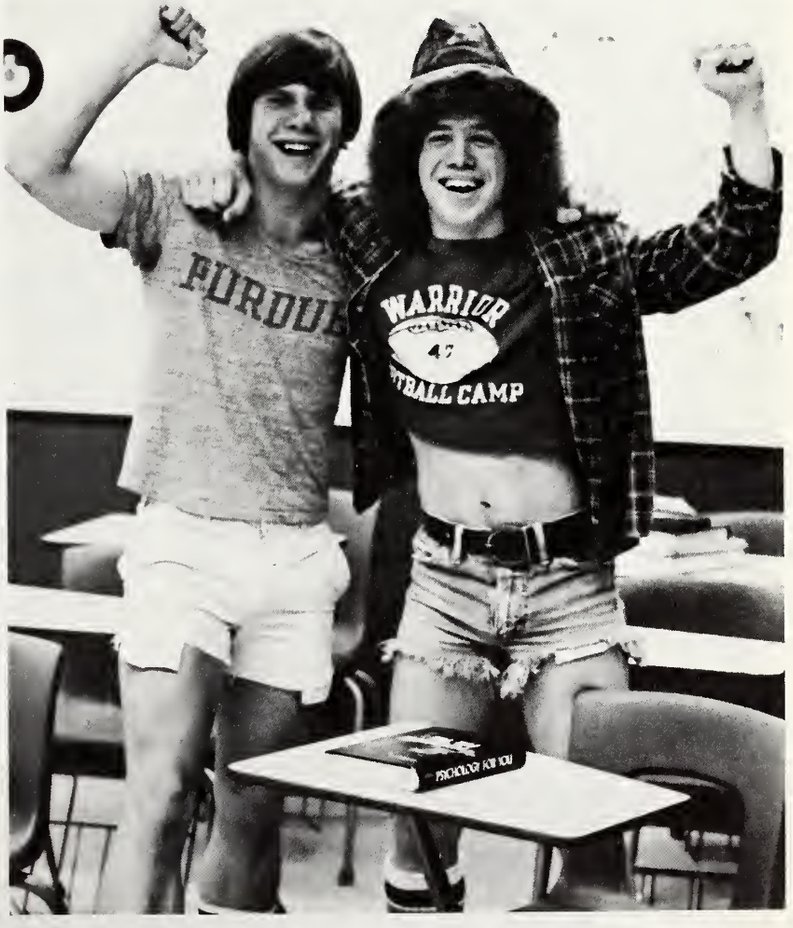
SENIORS MARK NYIKOS and Pat McShay, along with Rick Shumar, junior, went to great lengths to follow the trend on "Dress-Up Day."

Contrary to past homecomings, Homecoming 1974 was much more exciting. In comparison, activities took place all week instead of only on the day of the game. Activities included "dress days" in which students donned a particular style. There was also a parade, dance and pep session.

Monday was "Dress-Down Day" followed by "Dress-Up," "Nostalgia," "Jersey" and "Black and Gold," respectively. Nearly all of the students participated by conforming to each dress day. On "Dress-Down Day" students dressed in their crummiest clothes. "Dress-Up Day" was quite the opposite. Girls wore formals and nice dresses and guys wore tuxedos and suits. On "Nostalgia Day" there was an array of clothes from the 1890s to the 1950s. Everyone had on jerseys from several different schools on "Jersey Day." School spirit was shown Homecoming Day with students in black and gold attire.

On the night before Homecoming, there was a dance in the cafeteria. The live band was composed of Warren graduates Scott McKenzie, Bart Ping, Larry Sauer and Tom Smith.

T.A.C. MEMBERS RUTH Ann Sibbons, Jan Nidiffer, Karen Jaggers and Vicki Walton, seniors, wave to the crowd as they pass by during the Homecoming Parade.



OTTO HILDEBRANDT AND Tom Riha, seniors, may appear strangely dressed now, but on "Dress-Down Day" they felt quite at home.

WHILE AT THE Homecoming dance, Tom Riha boogies to the music of McKenzie, Ping, Sauer and Smith.

AS JOHN MCKENZIE, senior, finishes assembling the platform, Mr. Medcalfe prepares to address the students.

Parade highlights week of activities

The highlight of the week's activities was the parade in which Warren graduate and Channel 8 newscaster, Ms. Jane Pauley, was the grand marshal. Included in the parade were floats, antique cars, horses and a truck carrying the football team and coaches.

Following the parade was a pep session on the front lawn of the school. During the pep session, Homecoming queen candidates, the football team and Ms. Pauley were introduced. Floats were also judged with the sophomores winning the class competition and the Band capturing first place in the general competition.

Homecoming 1974 was brought to a close by the football game with North Central. The Warriors won the game with a score of 29-7. During half-time, Vicki Rumford was crowned Homecoming queen by Warren graduate and 1973 queen Jo Ellen Smith.

NEWSCASTER MS. JANE Pauley, 1968 Warren graduate, returns as the grand marshal of the parade and is accompanied by seniors Randy Law and Garry Brown.

HOMECOMING QUEEN VICKI Rumford is escorted onto the field during half-time activities by Peter Krug. Both are seniors.

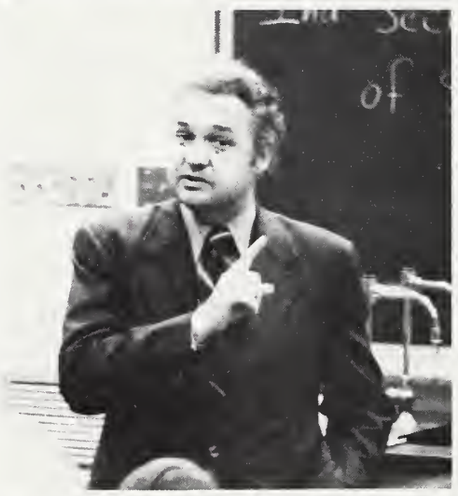
HOMECOMING DAY DOESN'T seem the same without the traditional mum. Karla Weidekamp, junior, displays hers with a smile.

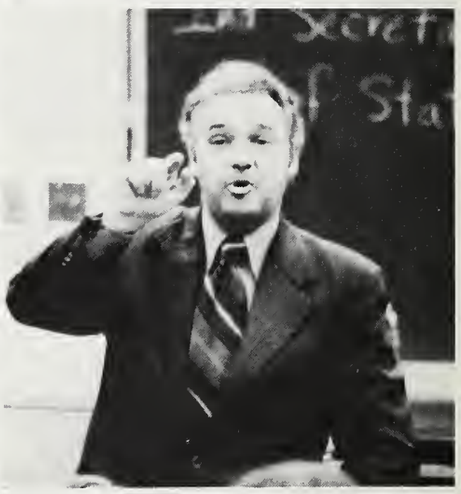
Students vote in mock elections

AN IMPORTANT PART of the tedious task of campaigning is meeting people and finding out their opinions on the issues. Senatorial candidate, Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar discusses the issues with students.

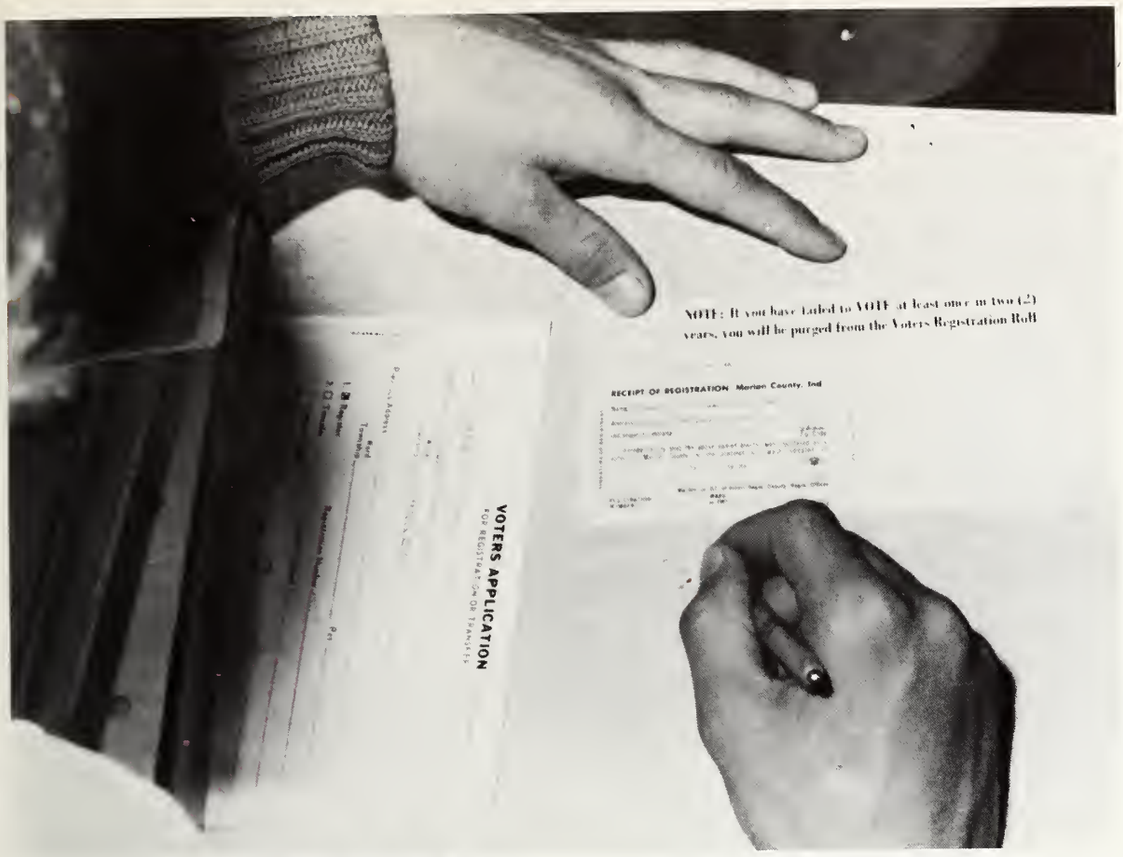
Junior and senior social studies classes had mock elections in which they voted for all the candidates running for state, national and county levels of government. The mock election returns were very similar to the November 5 elections. Although Warren Township is primarily a Republican district, the Democrats swamped the Republicans in the school elections. Democrat Larry Conrad had 767 votes to Republican William L. Allen III's 533, for Secretary of State. Running for 11th District Congressman, Andrew Jacobs, Jr., Democrat, beat William H. Hudnut, Republican, 762 to 569. Democrat James F. Kelly took the Marion County prosecuter race with 698 votes to Republican Noble R. Pearcy's 606. For Marion County sheriff, Larry F. Broderick earned 775 votes while E. Allen Hunter only had 517.

The only difference between the outcome of the mock elections and the true elections was in the senatorial race. At Warren, Republican Richard G. Lugar defeated Democrat Birch Bayh, 705-560. In the statewide elections, however, Birch Bayh was re-elected to a third term as U.S. Senator. Democratic candidates running for offices piled up impressive victories at both the public elections and school elections.



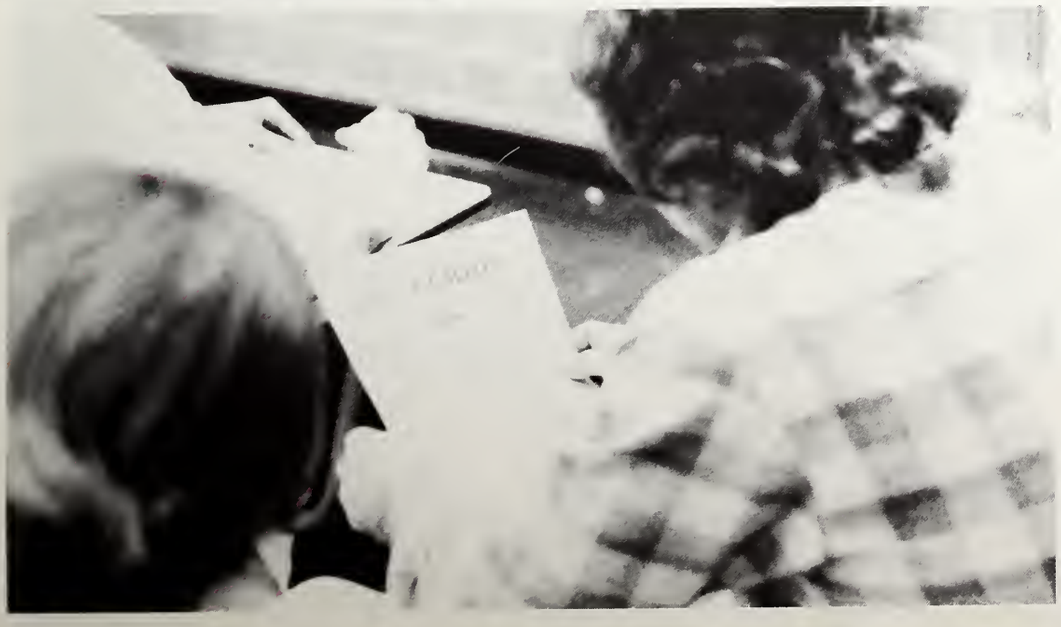


DURING THE SENATORIAL campaigns, senior Marsha Butler displays her opinion of a favorable outcome by wearing her Lugar for Indiana t-shirt.



SEVERAL SENIORS WHO just turned 18 were given their first opportunity in registering to vote. Mark Nyikos fills out his application during his government class.

WHEN INDIANA'S OWN Secretary of State Larry Conrad came to speak for the government classes before the 1974 November elections, a yearbook photographer was surprised to find such an array of expressions.



DURING THE MOCK elections senior Bruce Abercrombie examines his state ballot and makes his decisions concerning who his vote will be casted for.

Musicians earn first-rate scores

WARREN CENTRAL'S BAND, directed by Mr. James Chandler, marches down Post Road during the 1974 Homecoming parade.

MR. ROBERT BECKLEY conducts the Concert Orchestra during a school convocation.

THE WINDSORS, UNDER the direction of Mr. Philip Dunn, display their singing talent at the "That's Entertainment" concert, which was a combined effort of the orchestras and the musical groups.

All members of the Music Department took part in several concerts in 1974-1975. The choirs had approximately 60 appearances. Their programs consisted of public appearances in shopping centers, malls, nursing homes, clubs and parties.

A Christmas album was recorded by the singing groups, and many of these students also had parts in the 1975 musical, "My Fair Lady."

"That's Entertainment," a combination of the orchestra and choral groups, was the major concert of the year for the Concert and Symphonic orchestras. The songs "Theme from Summer of '42" and "Mancini Medley" highlighted the program.

Warren's orchestra has played for several groups including the Tudor Madrigal Dinner, Honor Society induction in April and for teachers at the ISTA building downtown.

Every Wednesday night for two hours the Large Ensemble practices a repertoire of songs so it can be ready for a program any time.

When the orchestra went to contests members earned the highest number of points in the first division.

Just as the choirs and orchestras, the Concert, Symphonic and Jazz bands had several concerts. They had a program at Warren called "All That Jazz," which was a combination of all three bands. The Symphonic Band played at Clowes Hall and the Jazz Band played at the Notre Dame University Jazz Festival and at Ball State University.

THE TREBLETONES, DIRECTED by Miss Barbara Robertson, swing with the beat of the song at a PTA meeting.

Fall plays contrast in content, staging

Throughout the summer the cast of "Winnie the Pooh," by A. A. Milne, memorized their lines and worked on the portrayal of their characters' personalities for the September 20 and 21 performances.

Linda Hackney, senior, performed in the lead role of "Winnie the Pooh." Piglet was played by senior Terri Cool, Owl by junior Denis Wilcoxen and Eeyore by junior Tim Leonard. Dave Petry, junior, was Christopher Robin. Junior Mary Ellen O'Connell was Kanga and Roo was performed by junior Deb McLaughlin.

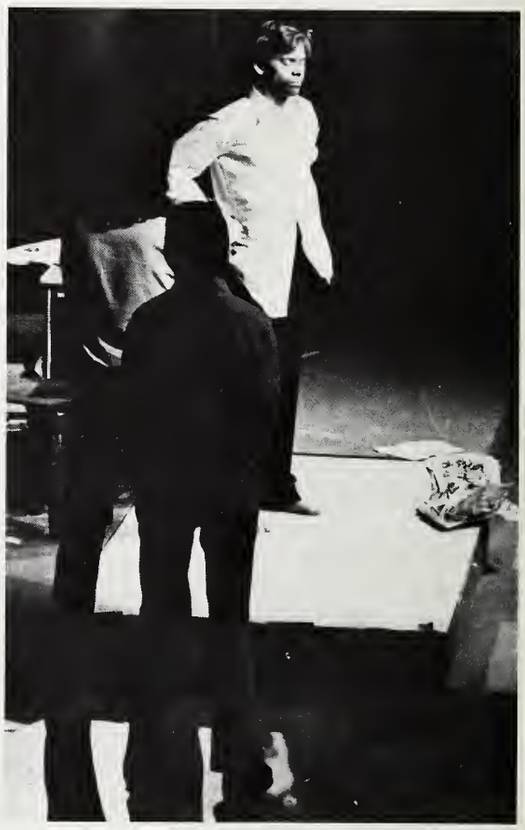
Other animals were played by Ken King, Vickie Schueller and Barb Morse, juniors, and Gina Cherry, senior. Extras were Dave Sullivan, junior; Garry Rhodes, junior, and seniors Cathy Gale and Jerri Goben.

According to Mr. Thomas Feit, director, the play was chosen because of its popular appeal, all the characters are well known, and the play was a sure money-maker for the Drama Club. The play was well received with an audience of about 350.

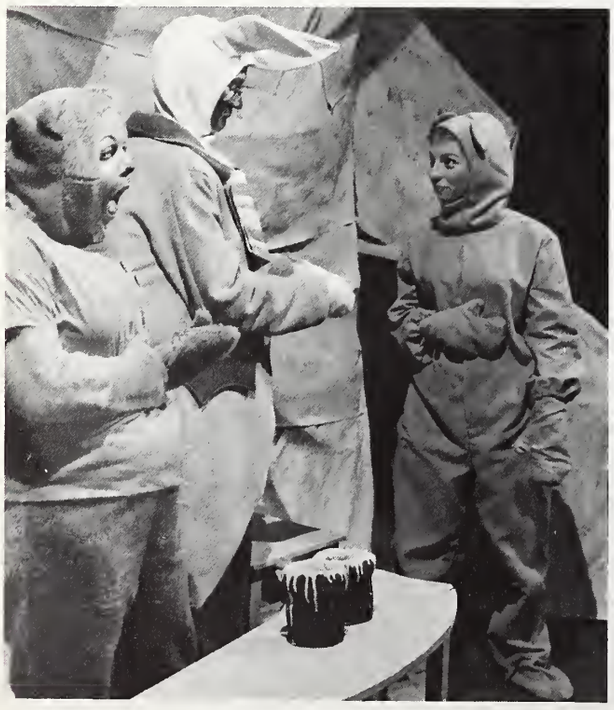
Mr. Feit commented that perhaps "Winnie the Pooh" was one of the best children's shows that the Warren Central Drama Club has done.

"A Thurber's Carnival," by James Thurber, is a collection of short skits with many characters. The plays should have had a wide interest but didn't go over as well as planned with only 258 people attending both evening performances. It was well received by those few who saw the show, but it was not a financial success. The Drama Club lost close to $200 on the production.

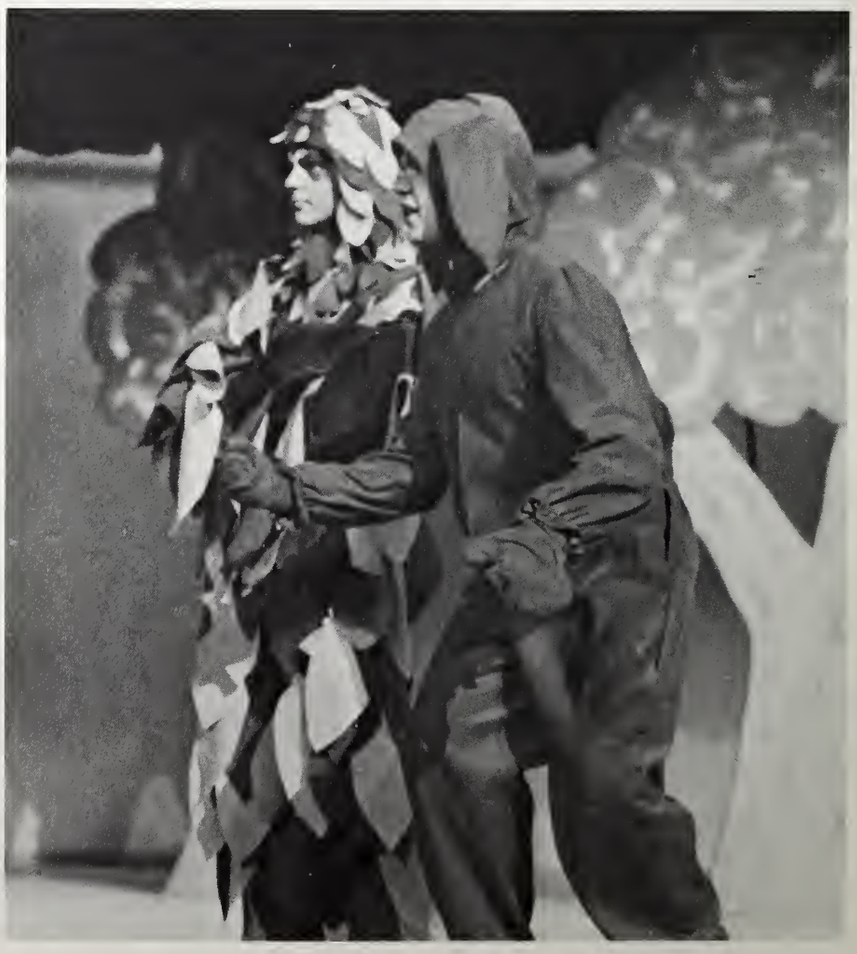
Mr. Feit added, "The play is a good one. It has long been known as one of the best for high school and college audiences. The humor of James Thurber is universal. I selected the play for I thought it would appeal to a larger audience, but it did not." He finished by saying, "I'm not sure just what we did wrong."



KEVIN COOK, SENIOR, in "If Grant Had Been Drinking at Appomattox," portrays General Grant, rudely awakens from a night of liqor.



ROO (DEB MCLAUGHLIN, junior), gives her opinion of the candy she just ate to Rabbit (Toby Vaughn, junior). Pooh (Linda Hackney, senior), indulges in some honey.



JUNIORS TIM LEONARD as Eeyore and Denis Wilcoxen, Owl, are surprised at just remembering Pooh's birthday in the production of "Winnie the Pooh."

Drama offerings expand with reader's theatre

Warren Central has a class that no other school in the state has—reader's theatre. It is a class in which all work is done in small groups. The students read from scripts and develop communication between the audience and actors by using mostly facial and voice expressions with very little acting.

Groups have performed for audiences, such as the Indiana State Teachers Association, Indianapolis English Club, classes at North Central High School, classes within Warren and children's and nursing homes.

Reader's theatre students use their own creativity to develop their programs which are of special interest to the group. Some subjects on which programs have been prepared include fiction, Thanksgiving, Halloween, Christmas, children's stories and Valentine's Day. The holiday shows are especially requested at the elementary schools.

"Teachers have told us many times that the younger students enjoy different aspects of literature more after seeing them performed—such as poetry and plays," explained Mrs. Susan Pearson, reader's theatre teacher.

A FUN FACET of reader's theatre is performing for grade school students. Doing a Halloween program are Mark Adkins, sophomore; Donna Kessler, junior, and Theresa Braden, senior.

Worthy projects aid cancer victims

CONVERSING ABOUT UPCOMING activities in Teens Against Cancer are Richard Leben, Susan Snyder, Sandy Campbell, Jan Nidiffer, John Cazares, seniors, and Lynn Baker, sophomore, Desiree Dunn, Karen Jaggers and Debbie Boller, seniors.

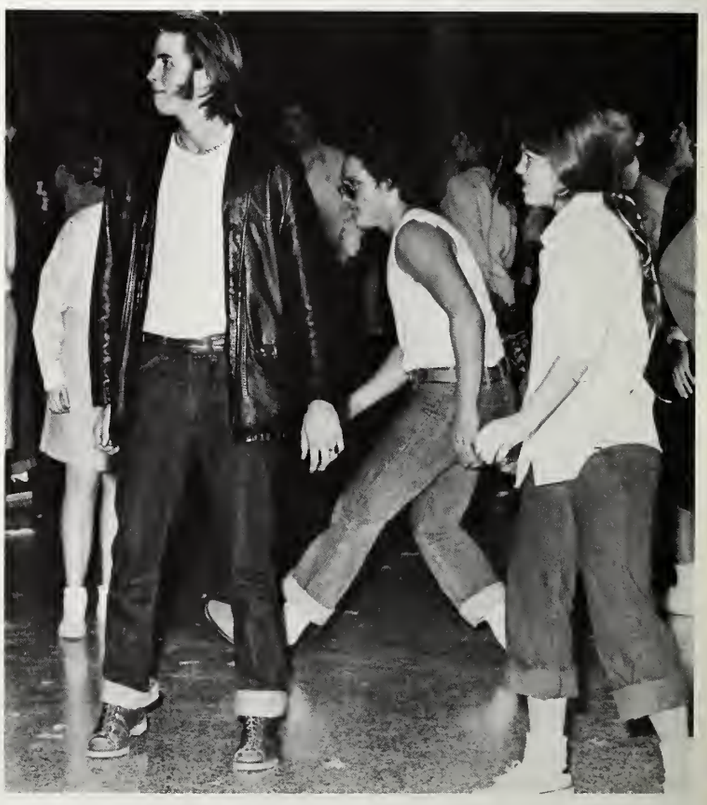
Teens Against Cancer is a club which raises funds for the Cancer Society, provides service to cancer victims and educates the public to the dangers of cancer.

The Warren Central Chapter of T.A.C. is affiliated with the Marion County Chapter of Teens Against Cancer. There were state organizations of T.A.C. but they became inactive. In May, 1973, the club was revived as a county organization. The following fall T.A.C. was made into a school club.

Warren Central became involved in Teens Against Cancer when Nancy Beck, the county sponsor wrote to schools asking for members. A group of girls from Warren responded to her letter, started the Warren Central chapter and helped recruit others to join the club.

Every year at Christmas, this group goes caroling, helps raise funds for the Cancer Society and sell Valentine Candygrams.

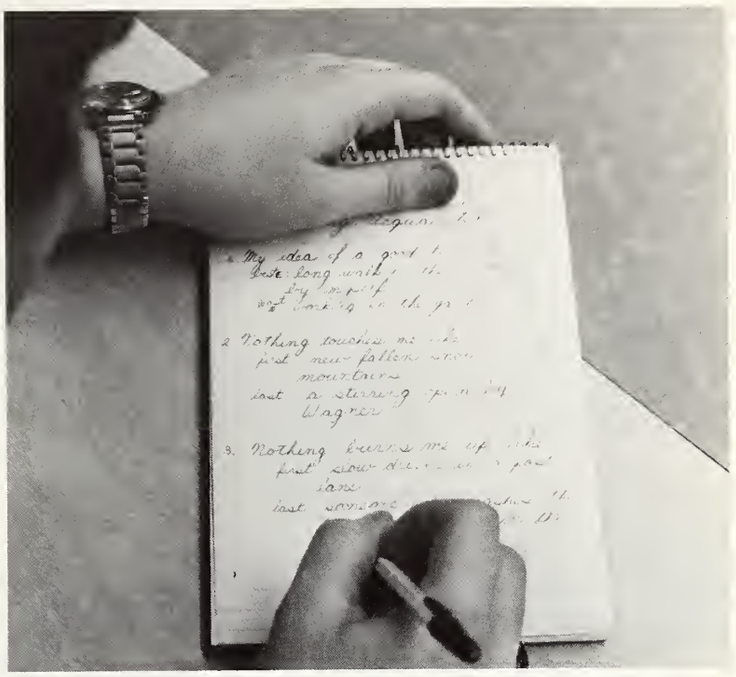
T.A.C. officers are seniors Desiree Dunn, president; Jan Nidiffer, vice president; Susan Snyder, secretary, and John Cazares, treasurer. The club has 30 members.



GARRY RHODES, MIKE Jones and Paula Quandt, juniors, twist around at the 50's dance sponsored by T.A.C.

AT A HI-C meeting Cheryl Jackson, Cindy Paxton and Greg Chiles, juniors, demonstrate rhythmical exercises.

WRITING THEIR FEELINGS out on paper for others to read is a way the members of Hi-C become acquainted.



Hi-C helps students grow spiritually

If you don't belong to a church where can you achieve Christian fellowship, Christian contact and Christian growth? One solution for this is the idea behind the Hi-C club. The club is well over 16 years old and had its beginnings as a group for fellowship and witness.

The 72 Hi-C members have participated in extraordinary activities, such as indulging in a 20-foot banana split and a cave trip with a catacomb service. Other activities have included an Under New Management concert, Feed a Family, weekend live-in and two serendipity courses . . . (making desirable but unsought discoveries by accident).

EVERY TUESDAY AFTER school Hi-C members have Bible study. Junior Suzanne Upshaw discusses a chapter with Mr. Max Meise, sponsor.

Activities top council's list

Student Council members, with help from Mr. Ernest Medcalfe, assistant principal, planned with much effort a parade along with different "dress days" for part of the 1974 Homecoming activities. A well attended Christmas dance with the theme of "Snowy Nights and Christmas Lights" was also sponsored by Student Council. Another activity which was a huge success was the Bill Wilson & Friends concert.

Bill Wilson is a lyrical composer who has appeared in concert with Wishbone Ash, Kansas, and several other groups. Kris Kristofferson compared him to a powerful Gordon Lightfoot after having two sell-out performances with Wilson at the Rivoli Theatre.

Bill Wilson's first album, "Ever Changing Minstrel," was produced by Bob Johnston who has worked closely with Bob Dylan, Johnny Cash and Simon and Garfunkel. Although it was not designed for sales and wasn't given any promotion, it sold well throughout the U.S.

Other members of the group are Russel Roush on bass, Moe Mulholland on lead guitar, Mike Prouty on percussion and Jim Moore plays the steel guitar. Bill Wilson plays the acoustic guitar. The Friends blend together to create what they call "myia music" or power ballads. In an article for the Teen Star, junior Mike Jones had this to say about the Bill Wilson concert: "Throughout the Warren concert Wilson developed rapport with the audience that earned him rousing applause."

MOVED BY HIS audience, Bill Wilson communicates the meaning of his songs more completely.

TROOPER CHUCK HEBBERT of the Indiana State Police talks to students interested in the field of law enforcement.

After graduating from high school, what are your plans? College . . . vocational school . . . apprenticeship? Some may find that going to college is the best thing for them, while others may attend a vocational school or take up an apprenticeship. Whatever the case may be, finding a job which you will be happy with is a difficult decision to make . . . one which takes a lot of careful thinking.

February 14, besides being Valentine's Day, was also "Career Day" for students at Warren Central. A wide range of job opportunities were selected and students were given the opportunity to go to designated rooms and find out about the job that interested them. Guest speakers were on hand to inform the students about a particular field and to answer questions.

In approximately two years the Career Center will be offering a program where students will be able to pick a field which interests them and learn more about it. Hopefully, this center will prove to be well worth all the time and effort that has been put into it. Its sole purpose will be to better help young people in their search for a job that suits them and one that they will be happy with. If they reach this goal, then it will all have been worthwhile.

Exchange students compare countries

This year four foreign exchange students were given the opportunity to live in America, learn its customs and meet new people. Warren Central received one student from Germany, one from Greece and two from Brazil.

Peter Pfeiffer, junior, is from Osnabrueck, Germany. Peter feels that the school system in America is entirely different from that of Germany. Subjects cannot be chosen, with the exception of seventh and 10th grades. As for recreation, Peter enjoys volleyball, which is a major sport in Germany.

Fotini Tsaousi, senior, hails from Thessaloniki, a town in the northern portion of Greece. Forms of entertainment include movies, taking a long walk or swimming in the Mediterranean Sea. There is no curfew and no age requirement for drinking in Greece.

Denise Lima, junior, and Arthur Monteiro, junior, are both from Brazil. At the school Denise attends in Brazil, classes are held from 7:30 a.m. until noon. On Saturdays students go to school only to take tests. Going to parties with friends is a favorite pastime of teens. In the school which Arthur is a pupil students are permitted to smoke. Another difference is that instead of the students moving from class to class, the teachers do. Rather than staying home and watching television, Brazilians would much rather go out.

Last summer, Mrs. Beth Walker, Spanish teacher, and her husband took approximately 40 students on a 15-day trip to Spain. The group toured many different parts of Spain and saw many interesting sights. One day was spent entirely in Tangiers, Africa. Junior Jude Noppenburger had this to say about the trip to Spain, "It was the most exciting trip of my life . . . I really learned a lot."

WHEN WARREN STUDENTS went to Spain they went to Spain's most famous spectator sport, the bullfight.

RIDING A BURRO is one experience senior Regenna Lyons will remember about her trip to Spain.

Speech team consistent in rankings

Nearly every Saturday for five months during the Forensic season, Warren Central's Speech Team arises very early in order to leave the school grounds between 5 and 6 a.m. Speech meets are held all over the state of Indiana. Warren has traveled to schools, such as Logansport High School, Terre Haute North, and Lafayette Harrison. Local schools are also visited, such as IUPUI and North Central. There can be as many as 42 schools competing at each meet.

Many do not fully understand what students do at these meets. There are 12 areas a student can enter. Boys' extemporaneous and girls' extemporaneous speaking is where a person draws a topic and is given 45 minutes to prepare an unmemorized speech on the topic.

Humorous interpretation is memorizing an 8-10 minute cutting from a humorous play, and dramatic interpretation is memorizing an 8-10 minute drama cutting. In both areas the main idea is to develop the characters, using very little acting.

In oratorical interpretation the speaker interprets a speech by delivering it the way the author might have. In original oratory the student writes and memorizes his own speech to give in 8-10 minutes.

Poetry is an area in which one recites unmemorized poems which have one major theme and should be 6-9 minutes in length. Students entered in impromptu speaking are given a word or phrase and have 30 seconds to think about it and then give a short speech on their interpretation of the topic given.

If one likes to discuss problems of national or political interest, then discussion is the area to enter. After identifying the problem, a discourse among the participants leads to a solution of the problem.

Those who feel they have an interest or talent for radio broadcasting can find out by entering this area at a speech meet. Individuals are given news, commercial and music copy to edit to present over a microphone.

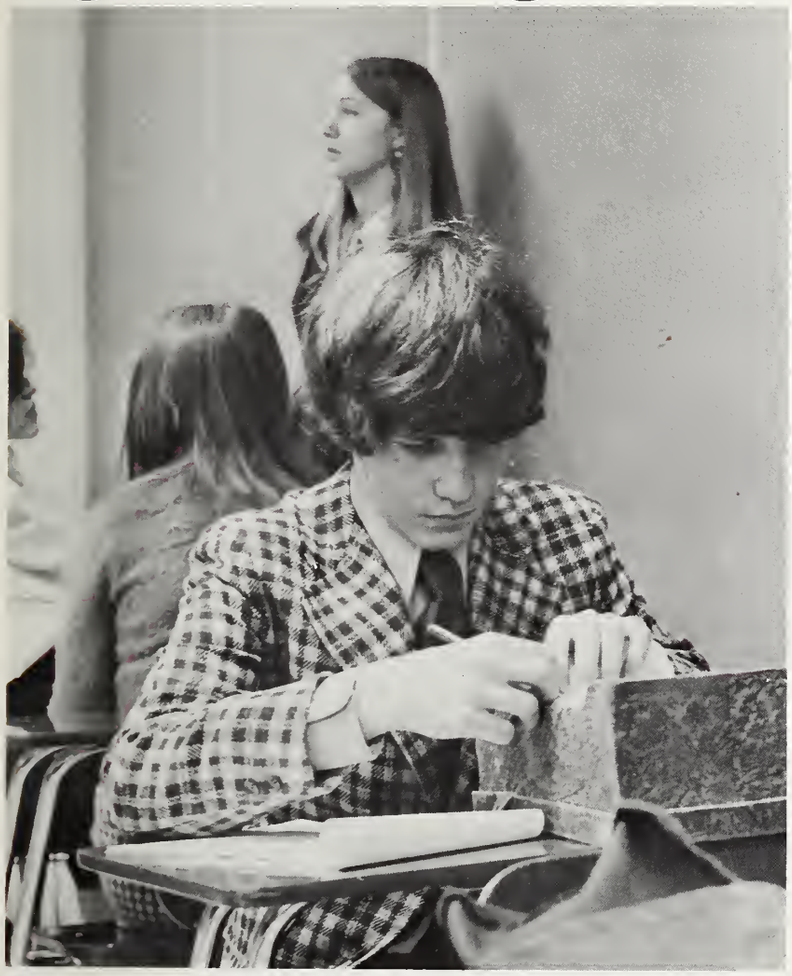
Two new categories have been added this year. Dramatic duo is an unmemorized dramatic cutting with only two characters and performed by two people. As in dramatic interpretation, very little acting can be used. Prose reading is similar to poetry in that it is unmemorized and is 6-8 minutes in length. It must, however, be written by 20th century authors and must contain only prose-style writings.

In the 1974-75 season Warren's speech team has always placed in the top 7 schools.

MR. DAVID FRUITS, speech coach, hands Julie Keller, senior, her round assignments at the speech meet sponsored by Ben Davis High School at IUPUI University.

AT CHRYSLER HIGH School junior Ross Ose does his best to convince his audience he fully understands his extemp topic.

Debate promotes logical thinking



Mr. Jay Ward, debate coach, defines debate as "formal argumentation between teams." Each year a nationwide topic is chosen for debate. This year's subject is "Federal Financing of Federal Election Campaigns." The students research the topic and gather evidence to present their cases.

At the meets teams go four rounds. Novice and sub-varsity take one side, affirmative or negative, for all the rounds. Varsity, however, takes one side for two rounds and the opposite side for the last two rounds. "Varsity players have to argue affirmatively, believing affirmatively, and turn around 15 minutes later and argue against the topic trying all the time to convince the other team," explained Mr. Ward.

Students are judged on a one to five point basis in six categories: analysis, reasoning, refutation, delivery, evidence and organization.

The Warren team has competed against many schools from all over the state. Meets have been held in schools, such as Terre Haute South, Lafayette Jefferson and Ball State University. Regionals were at Kokomo Hayworth, Open State at North Central and NFL District at IUPUI.

Mr. Ward commented, "Students in debate learn to do research, to organize their thoughts, to think logically and to recognize that all beliefs and opinions must be defensible."

Debaters are also eligible for NFL.

Owl, Wigwam hit by inflation

To learn more about newsmagazine format and find ways of bettering Warren's newsmagazine, The Owl, Editor-in-chief Cindy Pavey and Managing Editor Susan Snyder, seniors, attended a workshop at Ball State University for high school journalists. Cindy won an award for excellence in layout and design and Susan received a certificate.

This year's Owl was hit hard by inflation because both printing and paper costs rose. It cost $25 more for an eight-page paper than it cost last year for a twelve-page paper. Because of the high prices, The Owl staff had to earn money by selling more ad space and by selling Christmas and Valentine greetings.

In addition to The Owl being hit by inflation, Warren's yearbook, the Wigwam, cost $2,000 more this year. Money for the Wigwam was earned by selling underclass pictures, staff members selling ad space and by selling over 1,680 yearbooks, which was a 13 percent increase over the 1973 sales.

The 1974-75 Wigwam experimented with a new type of editorship. There were three editors-in-chief: seniors Kay Walker, Julie Pack and Mindy Chambers. Each was in charge of helping two section editors complete their work before deadlines besides fulfilling additional duties of their own.

STAYING AFTER SCHOOL for paste-ups is an important job. Seniors Greg Roach, entertainment editor, and Susan Snyder, managing editor, paste up Greg's entertainment page.

'E in K' men do mental push-ups

This was Warren's first year to participate in the Exercise in Knowledge program.

When the program first began the schools which originally were involved were the ones invited back each year. Other schools could not participate unless a charter school dropped out. Last year two students called the WLWI television station to see if Warren could be on the show. When Mount Comfort High School dropped out this year, Warren was eligible to join.

The students were selected by an elimination contest. It was then narrowed down to eight semi-finalists who practiced together for four weeks. By allowing the students a longer "trying-out" time, they were able to cover more areas, and the co-sponsors, Mrs. Lynn Weisman and Mrs. Susie Pearson were better able to determine which students had more depth and strength in each area.

After this time the final students were selected for the Exercise in Knowledge team. The four members were seniors John Vlantis, Kevin Cook, Brian Bauer and Duncan Brindly, junior. Briane House, also a senior, was chosen as an alternate.

The boys met at least once a week to practice. They used a buzzer board built on the principle of the one used on Channel 13. When the first person buzzes, a light comes on and all subsequent buzzers are locked out. Team members are asked questions and the boys compete against one another in trying to answer first.

They covered a wide variety of subjects using quiz books that were purchased and questions and books donated by teachers. Mrs. Pearson mentioned, "Practices are far from mundane affairs. The boys' remarkable knowledge is augmented by their delightful senses of humor. We are also indebted to Mr. Robert Reynolds of the electricity class, Mr. A. E. Spencer of the woodshop class and senior Mike Kelley for the buzzer board. It was a tremendous help."

Many comments were made about the Warren Exercise in Knowledge Team's being noticeably more relaxed and at ease than many other teams who have previously been on the TV program.

Students saw a sample of the team in a match against the faculty last March at an all-school convocation.

If Warren's team goes no farther than they have already, they will at least be remembered for their "half-time ventriloquist show."

"Many students watched our show on television, and the interest and enthusiasm has been most rewarding," said Mrs. Pearson.

BRIAN BAUER, SENIOR, gives an answer to a question while Kevin Cook, senior, Duncan Brindley, junior, and John Vlantis, senior, listen and decide for themselves whether or not Brian is correct.

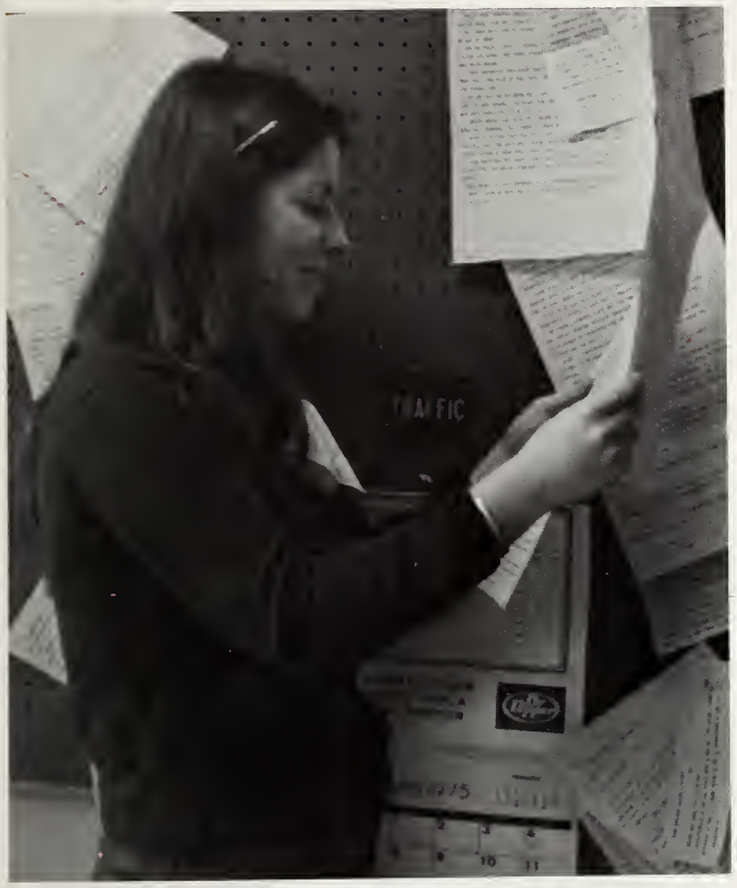
WEDM improves area's sound



WEDM (Warren's Educationally Developed Media) was designed with the purpose of serving Warren Township schools thanks to the perseverence of Mr. Nick Sanders, former Warren English teacher, and Mr. Edward Cuddy, assistant superintendent of secondary education.

WEDM attempts to serve the township by featuring programs developed locally and of local interest. Some of the special programs this station transmits are the nursery school "Read Aloud," which is a children's book review by Warren Librarian Steve Bridge; an adult book review by Warren Librarian Lois Lemon and reader's theatre programs. Others include the broadcasting of Warren Central athletic events, classical appreciation shows, environmental protection shows, school and community interviews, over 15,000 public service promotional announcements and live UPI news and weather every hour.

The students that operate the station are a select group of juniors and seniors who have displayed not only talent but also ability to handle responsibility, as well as having the self-discipline and aptitude necessary for the position. Mrs. Barbara Knauer added, "The jobs are demanding but self-rewarding, and many of WEDM's staff members go on to commercial and college stations as a result of the job experience."

SENIOR JULIE KELLER checks over the news, which comes over the UPI machine, so she can read it on the air.

Warm winds circulate through winter months

The climate in Indianapolis in the months of September through November was much warmer than in past years. A new record was set, however, with the arrival of a severe and early frost. Also there was an abundance of fog, especially in November and December.

September's high in 1974 was 70 degrees while the average temperature was 60 degrees. October brought a month of warm weather and minimal amounts of fog or precipitation. Temperatures reached as high as 78 degrees while 52 degrees had been a more normal range in the past. An average of 50 degrees in November was 12 degrees higher than usual. Warm weather ceased in December, and the climate returned to weather more common to the area. Even though temperatures dropped, snowfall remained light except on March 14 and precipitation in the form of rain was quite heavy.

THE SNOW PATTERN on these branches give indication from which direction the snow was coming.

KING AND QUEEN of the 1974 Tudor Madrigal Dinner were seniors Brad Ping and Lisa Tisdale.

Recreating an early English dinner complete with musical entertainment was the Music Department's annual Tudor Madrigal Dinner in December.

The miscellaneous activities of the event were comprised of a wassail bowl, boar's head, yule log, grace, the crowning of a king and queen and musical entertainment by the Madrigals, Trebletones, Windsors and actors.

Mr. Dunn, vocal music teacher, and the Madrigals started the Tudor Madrigal Dinner at Warren 11 years ago to provide an opportunity for students to participate and enjoy the culture of the 16th century.

In past years the dinner was sponsored jointly by the English and Music departments. Mr. Dunn commented, "It is a very happy and festive occasion. We hope it can continue."

In 1974, Brad Ping was crowned king of the ceremonies and Lisa Tisdale was crowned queen. Both are seniors.

A FAMOUS CEREMONY of the annual Tudor Madrigal dinner is the bringing in of the yule log. Dave Shadday, junior, and Jim Wilkinson, senior, do the honors.

Christmas. What exactly does the word Christmas mean? To some it is a religious holiday. Some think only of gifts. Others feel it is a combination of both.

To the students of Warren Central the season also means a two-week vacation from school and maybe a trip to Florida. Parties were frequent during the Christmas break and at the end of the vacation comes New Year's.

At Warren Christmas activities were numerous. Several clubs and classes had parties, but the highlight of the season was the Christmas dance sponsored by Student Council. Mr. C. E. Eash, president emeritus of Indiana Central College, spoke on the meaning behind the lighting of Christmas candles at an all-school convocation.

Throughout the week preceeding Christmas, the holiday spirit made it hard for students to concentrate on their studies, but teachers realized the reason and were not hard on students. As Thomas Tusser, a British author, put it, "At Christmas, play and make good cheer, for Christmas comes but once a year."

AT THE FRENCH Club Christmas party members help themselves to the refreshments.

DYNAMITE FOXY

New slang words, fads and fashion were a portion of the personal lives of Warren students. New movies based on catastrophies were filmed to acquaint people with the emotions experienced during disasters which could happen in real life.

Boy: "You're a really foxy chick, man!"

Girl: "Why, thanks, you big hunka dynamite!"

Boy: "This school can be really beat if ya wanna know!"

Girl: "Ah come on, get off its case. School's what ya make it."

Boy: "I don't mean to get red about it. All I said was . . . "

The previous dialogue was a conversation using slang words common to students today. In all instances the classical meaning of words have been twisted to take on entirely different meanings.

The prevailing taste in clothes for 1974-75 was anything from very dressy to decoratively embroidered shirts and jeans.

Several new fads started this year. Many girls began wearing longer skirts and dresses and ornamenting themselves with scarves tied around necklines. Shirts with hoods for the "sweatshirt look" and "Earth" shoes were also popular. Guys began wearing platform shoes, baggy pants and caps.

"Win" (Whip Inflation Now) and "smile" pins were also displayed by students.

Movies based on possible major catastrophies were "Airport '75," "The Towering Inferno" and "Earthquake."

"Airport '75" was a movie about an airplane crash caused by the impact of a small passenger plane into the nose of a 747 jet while in mid-air. "The Towering Inferno," filmed in San Francisco, was a thrilling, suspense-filled movie in which a fire raged on the 80th floor of a 138-story building. A total of 58 stories were destroyed by the rampaging fire. "Earthquake" used a new innovation in movies called "sensurround." The use of "sensurround" created the feeling of "being there." Viewers were able to experience the actual sensations of being involved in an earthquake.

Places to go for pleasure

SHOPPING WITHOUT BUYING anything is an inexpensive way to spend an evening. Looking at clothes are junior Dana Noel and senior Ronny Collier.

HAMBURGERS AND FRENCH fries still tend to be the favorite food of most students. Barb Morse, junior, Terri Cool, senior and Lesley Stoeffler, sophomore eat at a local restaurant.

Pacer or Racer games, movies, going out to eat, shopping, participating in sports or just driving around are just a few of the various forms of entertainment that high school students enjoy.

In 1974-75 Pacer basketball games and Racer Hockey games became increasingly popular after the opening of the Market Square Arena in downtown Indianapolis.

The opening of Washington Square shopping center gave students a place close to home to be together for shopping, a movie or indulging in one of the many flavors of ice cream from one of the ice cream parlors.

Interest has risen at a rapid rate in games, such as air-hockey and pin ball machines. In 1974 many new pin ball arcades and palaces appeared throughout the country.

These many and varied forms of entertainment have facilitated the search for pleasure.

GOING TO SEE a movie is only one form of entertainment in which couples take part. Jim Price buys tickets for himself and Terri Cool. Both are seniors.

ALTHOUGH WARREN STUDENTS like to spend an evening quietly, others prefer to be active, and as a result, roller skating has become very popular.

JOCKS

In the tense stomach-churning excitement of a heated game, athletes, coaches and fans alike can forget the confusion of their daily routines.

Athletes are totally involved in the contest, striving with the utmost of their abilities to be victorious. Coaches try with immense effort to guide the team to victory, while the fans are choking on the intense excitement and the throbbing expectations of victory or the agonizing sting of defeat.

With the empathy of the onlookers and the tremendous exertion shown by athletes endeavoring to conquer, confusion is put aside and the emotions of all are massed together for one explosive moment. Emotions unleash to reverberate in the most sportsmanlike manner at any momentous sports event before the eyes of all. This is sports at its finest moment.

Soccer club rookies zap opponents

ACTION CAN BE fierce and rough. Senior John Vlantis slips by his opponent and sends the ball hurtling toward the goal. Rob Ikeda, senior, readies himself for a possible pass.

New things happened in the fields in 1974. A group of interested boys along with men like Mr. Clifford Gates, asst. principal, Mr. Alan Miedema, physical education teacher, and Mr. Clyde Foster, the sponsor and art teacher, started a new program here. They created intramural soccer and made it a startling success. The soccer squad, in its rookie season, invaded other interested schools and came roaring back home with a 5-2 won-lost record.

Led by Brazilian exchange student Marcos Tome, and Warren students John Vlantis, Hank Dragoo, and Rob Ikeda, the team won its last four games by smashing rivals Chatard, Arlington, Roncalli, and Lawrence. The combination of teamwork, strategy, brilliant defense and attacking offense made them winners. The soccer squad displayed their talents throughout the season with a successful combination of these.

"They're a young team, whereas some teams have been playing together for five years or more! It was their first season and everybody enjoyed playing." Coach Foster added, "Winning isn't all of it, but it sure helps."

After the spring competition, the program was continued as a Soccer Club, drawing many more interested people than the original group. Since soccer is not sanctioned by the school, it developed as intramurals and now continues throughout the spring, summer and fall.

"In many ways this season has been more exciting and rewarding than any of our past experiences," Coach Jerry Stauffer commented about the 1974 track team. He continued, "We established records that we didn't think we would; we won relays that we were not supposed to and we generally surprised many teams with our talents."

Establishing these records came easier for the team because of its excellent coaching staff of Mr. Stauffer, Mr. Larry Willen and Mr. G. Con Keller. Some of the highlights of 1974 were Warren Relay Championship, second in the Marion County Track Meet and winning the mile and 880 relays in the CSAC meet for the third year in a row. No other team has won both events at the same time in the history of the conference.

The team also set a new mile relay record in the CSAC meet of 3:25 and qualified four athletes to the regional meet (Wayne Machala, Steve Lenahan, Paul Shadday, and Randy Yount). Randy was Warren's only state meet qualifier, and he ran hurdles.

Indoors, the team broke or tied five records. Rusty Meadors tied the 50 yard dash record with a time of 5.8 seconds. The 70 yard low and the 70 yard high hurdles were broken by Gary Davis and the mile and two mile runs by Wayne Machala.

Outdoors, eight school records were broken: Rusty Meadors in the 100 and 440 yard dash; the 330 yard intermediate hurdles by Brian Holmes, Paul Shadday in the discus throw; the High School Distance Medley by Brian Oertel, Jim Buchanan, Jim Meyer, Steve Lenahan, and Wayne Machala; the sprint medley relay by Steve Hallock, Mark Nyikos, Rusty Meadors, and Dean McDonald, and the 120 yard shuttle hurdles by Brian Holmes, Gary Davis, Mike Couch and Randy Davis. At the end of each season the team holds a decathalon which was won by Randy Yount. Randy also set a school record in this event.

Finishing the year with three triangular wins, nine wins and five losses in dual meets, two championships, three seconds, one third and three fourths in invitational or relay meets, the varsity had an excellent showing for the season's work.

RECORD HOLDER PAUL Shadday, a 1974 graduate, lets his discus fly toward his school record of 153 feet 6 inches.

Mark Plummer had the best sophomore effort in the discus throw with a season best of 135 feet 2 inches. Dave Allen had a season best of 13 feet in the pole vault.

Leading underclass scorers were Mike Couch with 73.5 points, Mike Patterson with 45 points, Harry Hanna with 39 points, Jim Buchanan with 38.25 points and Tim Corey with 34 points.

The underclass finished the season with a record of 10 wins and one loss in dual meets, giving Coach Jerry Stauffer some fine material to work with for 1975.

The outstanding individuals who made meets exciting were Ann Glover and Delia Curran. Ann advanced through the sectionals, scoring the only team point and to the regionals in the 80 yard hurdles. The girls' squad placed 13th in the sectionals and eighth in the CSAC meet. Coach Sue Everly praised Delia, who was the "best all-around athlete" of the team. She was the most consistent in all events, specializing in field events.

Coach Everly said the 1974 season was good for experience. She had no experience as a coach before but was anxious for the 1975 season.

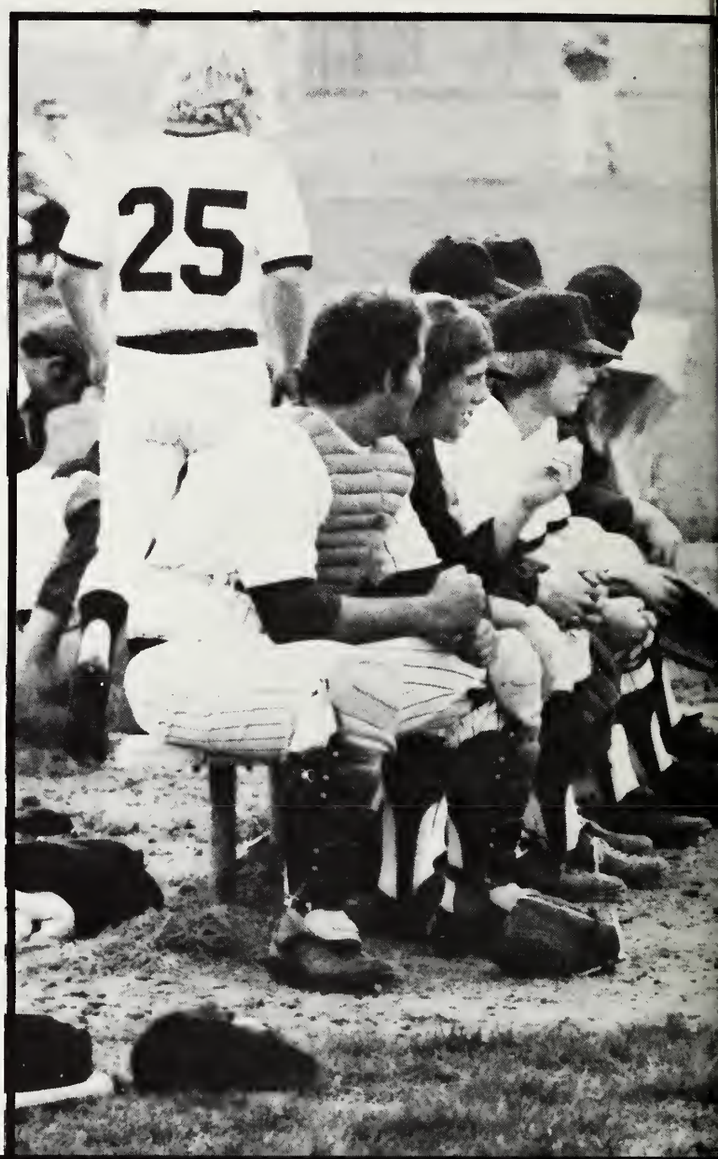
Speed, power clinch CSAC contest

By winning 17 out of 24 starts, the varsity baseball team kept its winning reputation up with another fine season. One of the high points was a 6-3 victory over Lawrence Central, which enabled Warren to clinch first place in the conference.

Outclassing many teams throughout the season, power hitters, such as Steve Bullington, Bruce Wessling and Rick Stites, romped over opposing pitchers for six home runs and many clutch hits to drive in the needed runs. Adding to the slugging antics of the Warriors, such standouts as pitchers John Harmas and Bill Reid gave them defensive support throughout the season.

Leading the pitching staff with an earned run average of an eye-boggling .691 and an impressive 9-1 record, John feasted on the battery of teams like Tech, Kokomo and Marshall. Adding to his statistics is an overpowering 109 strikeouts in a mere 60 2/3 innings.

As for team effort, they didn't lack there either. The varsity boys frolicked over Tech, Pike, Beech Grove and Kokomo by scores of 10-0. For a season total, the opposition was outscored 139-52. Coach Don Foreman sounded optimistic about 1975 as he went through the old record book citing the speed, power and pitching he will get.



WHILE WARREN TAKES its turn at bat, Steve Bullington, John Harmas, graduates, and John McKenzie, senior, discuss game strategy and the pros and cons of baseball.

According to Coach John Orr, fluxuation throughout the season contributed to the demise of an undefeated season for the junior varsity baseball team. Coach Orr said they had the potential to go undefeated, but they ended up with a 16-5 record. "They had great capabilities." He attributed much of their success to speed on the base-paths and their good defense.

Starting out 5-0, they ripped Tech 10-0, Greenfield 1-0, and 4-3, Richmond 14-4, and Southport 4-1. After dropping two games, they came back in style by capturing the next four by outscoring opponents 38-13. By far the most outstanding victory for them was the 21-1 drubbing of Scecina.

Coach Orr praised his bench because they came through when he needed them most. "They were the key to our success because they picked us up when we started to drag and they came in and turned close games into satisfying victories." Coach Orr was really looking forward to the 1975 season because of vastly improved players and a talented group of sophomores coming up. His main goal is an undefeated junior-varsity team.

Successfully completing another golfing season, the golf team rocketed through a tough schedule and rolled out with a 12-4 record.

Performing at the peak of their ability, the golfers met Pike in the second match of the 1974 season and they averaged 38 strokes for nine holes with five players.

However, Warren's most outstanding victory was at the expense of Scecina. They trounced on Scecina by 44 strokes.

Outstanding players for the Warriors were Dave Novotny, Andy Thomas, and Mark Marchetti. They earned a second in the CSAC meet, a third in the county, and a 10th in the sectionals.

Sending their first season into the record-books with style, the girl racketeers won their last four matches in a row with their best showing being against Beech Grove. The girls smashed the Grove 5-2 for the grand finale of their rookie season.

Leading the team were Teresa Galloway, the number one player, and Susi Turner, who had the best overall record at 9-1. She was the number four player. At the end of the season, the efforts of all the girls totaled into a 4-7-1 record. The tie came in the first meet of the season against Arlington, 4-4.

The 1975 season should be interesting. Coach Tim Armstrong expects every girl to return except Susi Turner, who graduated. With the experience gained from last year and the return crop of athletes, Mr. Armstrong said the team would be a lot better and especially strong in singles.

"KEEP YOUR EYES on the ball," is a general rule for all sports involving a ball. Debbie Bergdoll, senior, keeps her eyes on the ball, readying herself to send it back where it came from for keeps.

"The team showed significant improvement as the season progressed," stated Mrs. Beth Walker, coach of Warren's first girls' golf team. "The team didn't do too well since it wasn't organized until three days before our first match, and only one girl on the team was experienced," she added.

The team came in seventh place in the sectional tournament out of 15 teams. Some of our better scores this year were by Danielle Winings with a 45, 48, 49 best for the year. Danielle is a freshman at Stonybrook Junior High School this year. She was the medalist during most of the season, and she was also ranked high in the county standings.

"The year," according to senior Janet Convey, "was very disappointing, because we had trouble finding a coach. Finally we got Mrs. Walker."

The girls' season was short, consisting of six meets. Some of the tougher teams they went against were North Central, who had a girl place second in the sectional meet; Ben Davis and Greenfield.

Compared to the previous history of Warren's tennis teams, the 1974 season was one of the better ones. The varsity squad was one of depth in singles, while they were hurting in doubles. "A tennis team is hurting if it lacks depth in either singles or doubles," Mr. Frank DeBruicker said.

Being staffed with three experienced racketeers, a 7-7 record speaks for itself when the competition is as rugged as it is in the greater Indianapolis area. Steve Ferguson was the number one player throughout the season. After the season, Steve was recognized as a member of the conference all-star team. Kevin Cook was relatively a newcomer to tennis when he tried out and he became the third man, taking honors as the varsity player with the best record, 146-113.

Team spirit soared as every player had in mind they were going to win. Every match displayed a positive attitude because the players never gave up. The greatest disappointment of the season was the loss to Greenfield 3-2. Had they beaten them, they would have been CSAC champions. But they didn't give up. The varsity squad came roaring back to win the next three out of four.

As Coach DeBruicker thought about 1975, he knew it would produce a very inexperienced team. "One-half of the boys that tried out were sophomores. However, we'll have a good nucleus to build a team on, "Mr. DeBruicker said in a mellow tone.

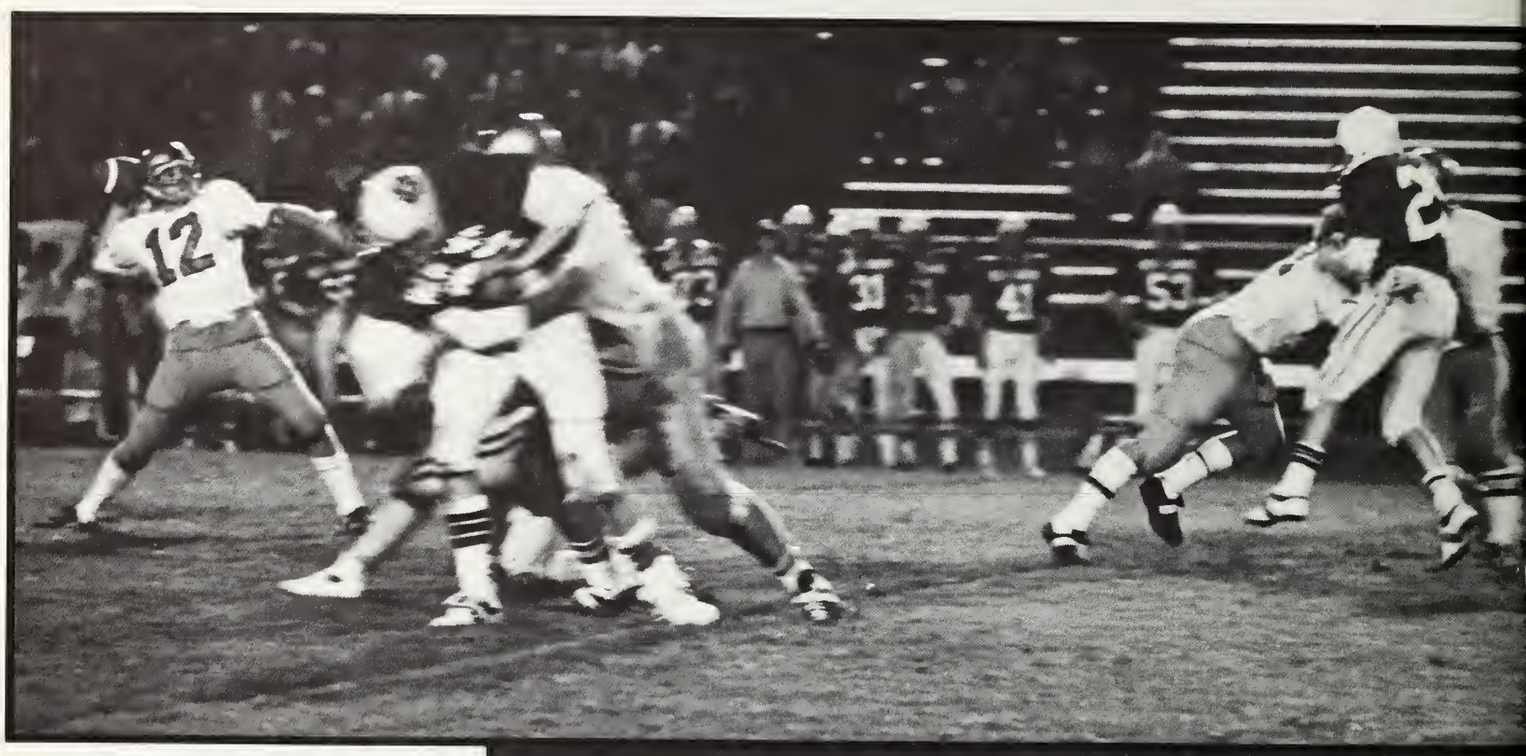
Team stocked with record-setters



AS THE LINEMEN keep the pocket from collapsing, senior Jeff Huffman rares back to unleash a long pass to a sprinting receiver.

As the varsity football team emerged from a 5-5 season, the record books had to be rescrambled and realigned because of individual and team heroics in the last five games.

Breaking some records that have stood for several years, seniors Harry Hanna, Jeff Juffman and J. B. Pirtle led the squad in rushing, receiving and passing. J. B. Pirtle smashed the previous total yardage for a season record with a staggering 1,111 yards. Against Southport, J. B. rambled for 266 yards while Jeff Huffman broke the touchdown pass record by throwing his 13th and 14th touchdown passes. Speedster Harry Hanna set two school records during the same play. Against Franklin Central, Harry caught a 50 yard pass thrown by Jeff Huffman and he shrugged off his defender to sprint the last 40 yards to polish off a well executed 90 yard touchdown play. Harry now has the longest touchdown pass in Warrior history.

After Coach Jerry Stauffer initiated a tri-captainship by team-member election, the varsity players chose Jeff Huffman, Greg Ranson and Keith Noblitt as their team captains. "This was the first year we had elected captains," Coach Stauffer said.

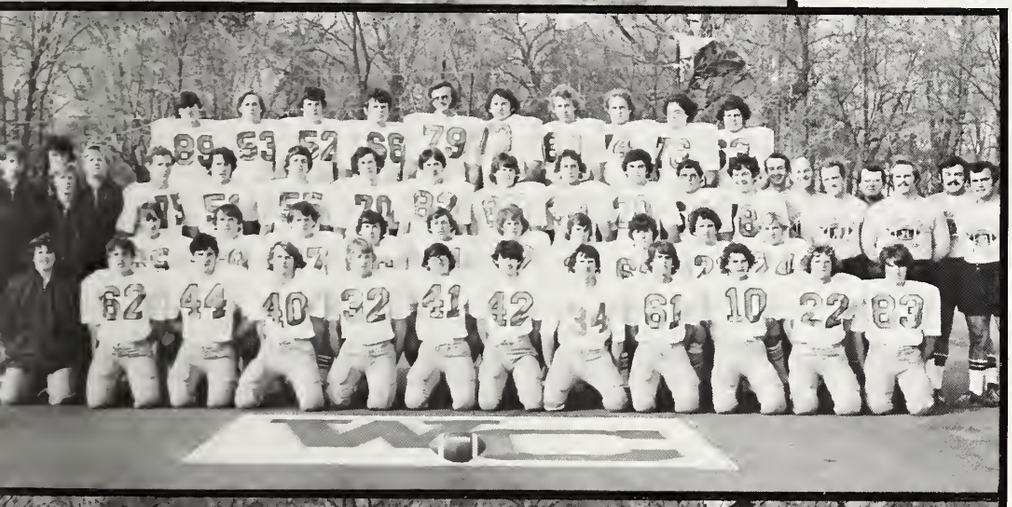
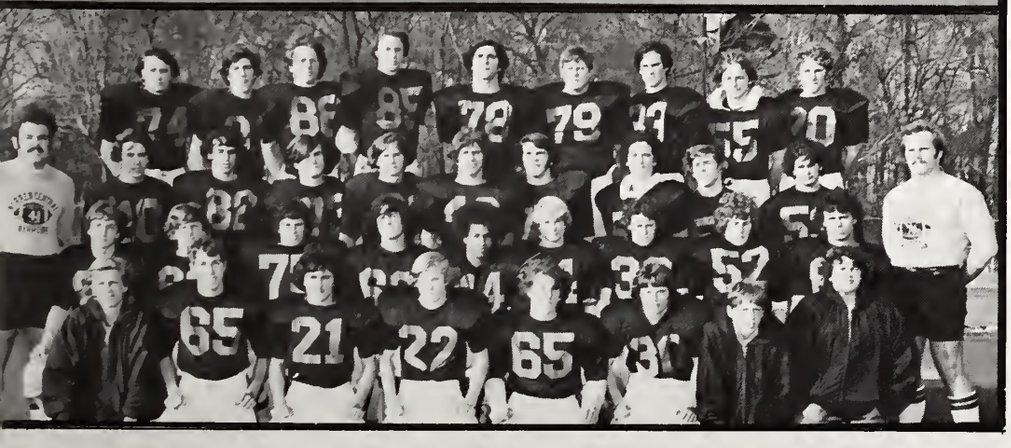
IN A GAME full of spills and thrills, Jeff Huffman takes the snap, wary of the opponent's menacing defense.





Sporting a small junior varsity football team, Warren produced a 1-8 record and a group of 32 improved football players. One bright point of the season was the only victory coming against Arlington, 46-0. Coach Gene Nesbit said they were only out of two games, against Carmel and Ben Davis.

Summing up their record the best he could, Mr. Nesbit said that junior varsity football is teaching sophomores about high school football, its offenses and defenses. "For a team of sophomores and a few juniors, all first year players, with little experience, they did a good job on using as difficult an offense as they had. Not too many varsity teams can run a 'veer' offense well in the first year, let alone a reserve team.

"All the boys improved throughout the season. Their desire never faded. Some guys had good football knowledge and the varsity should receive some good kids next year," concluded Mr. Nesbit.

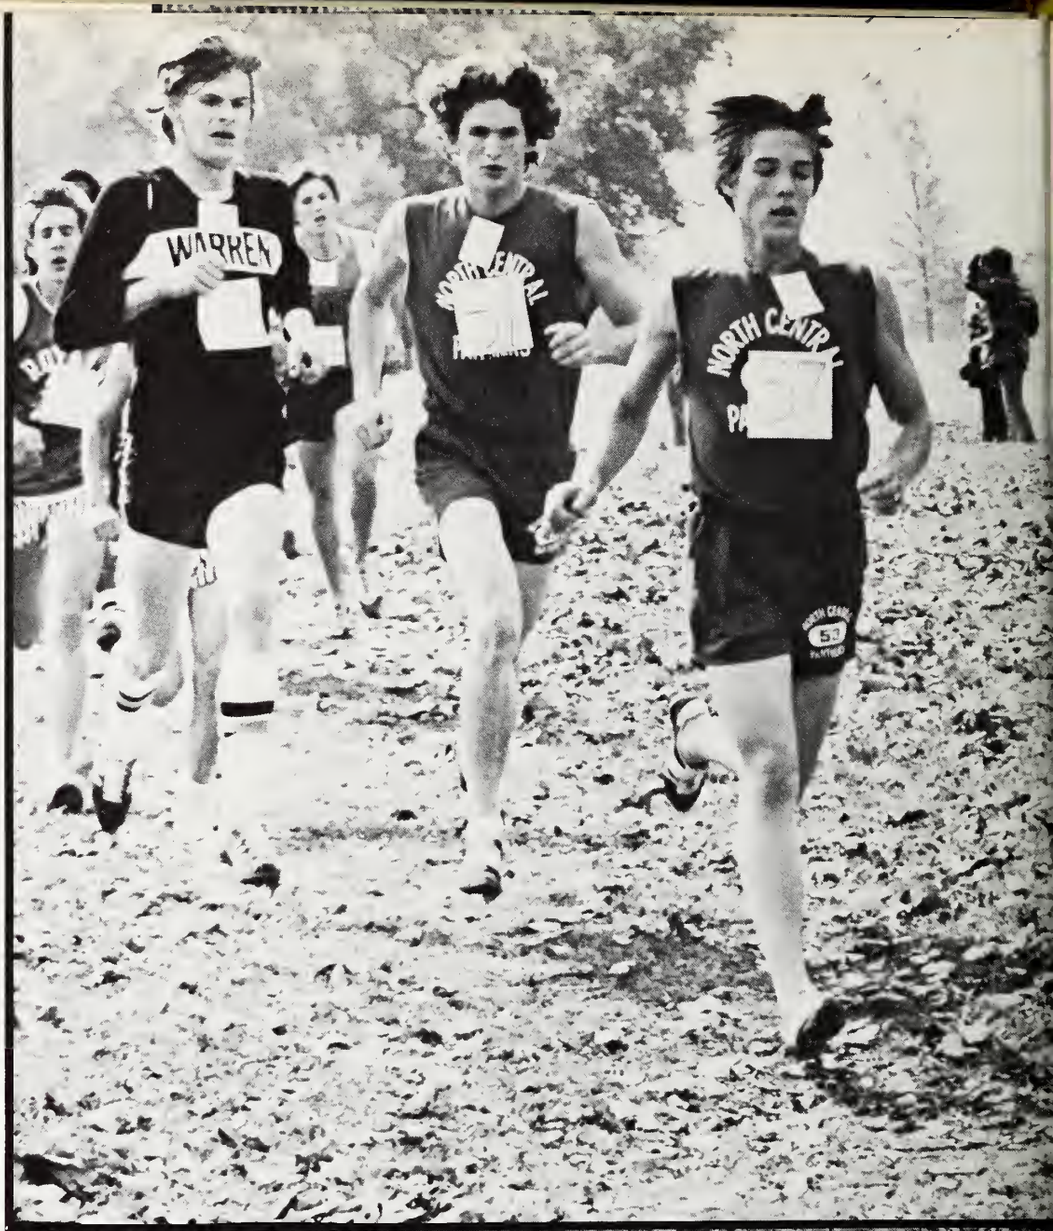
AS THE SEASON rolled along, it became colder and wetter. Joe Hudson, senior, braves the autumn weather during one of the team's meets.

"We had a season; not as good as many people expected, but it was good, even though we were plagued with injuries," senior Larry Kjeldsen proudly stated. According to the varsity coach, Mr. Richard Conway, the 1974 cross country team was the fourth best Warren has ever enjoyed.

Sharing a common bond of friendship and respect between each other, the harriers had only good things to say about each other and their efforts throughout the season. Senior Wayne Machala was flattered almost all of the season as "the best cross country runner Warren has ever had." He backed this up by nailing down new course records in the books of high schools all over the county, including Warren.

At critical moments of the season, the top runners had to drop out for part of the season because of illness or injury. "It was a frustrating year because of the injuries. Almost all of the varsity runners were hurt at one time or another," commented Coach Conway. Despite those distractions, the varsity squad compiled a 74-41 record, topped off with a second place finish in the CSAC and fourth in the sectional meet.



KEEPING UP THE grinding pace in the endurance race are seniors Larry Kjeldsen and Dan Brown.

"The year would have been better, record wise, if other teams had not run seniors on junior varsity teams," stated Head Cross Country Coach Richard Conway, concerning Warren Central's junior varsity team. The team did have a winning season this year with a 30-21 meet record, a second place finish in the conference meet and a third place finish in the Highland Invitational.

Like the varsity team, the reserve also was hurt by injuries during the year. Most of the team members thought that the team could have won the CSAC Conference meet and also invitational meets had it not been for injuries. Along this line, Coach Conway stated, "If Ben Davis would have not run seniors, the Warren junior varsity would have been conference champs."

Members of the team spent most of the season learning. Disappointing as the season was, times were getting better as it progressed. The leading times for the team were very close with Gary Metcalfe finishing the year with a 13:47 time, Mike Rodden with a 13:51 season best and Randy Gray with 13:57.

In the words of sophomore Tim Hallock, "The whole season was fun and worthwhile. I didn't do too good myself, but it was a very exciting experience."

Team spirit was outstanding during "one of the finest seasons we ever had," Mrs. Rosalind White said about her volleyball team, varsity and reserve.

Enduring a demanding practice schedule, the girls developed into a close-knit and hard spiking group. Practices usually lasted from two-and-one-half to three hours. Most practices contained vigorous workouts on defense and their strong point, a powerful offense. Spiking, setting the ball up, and serving were some skills the girls learned in those daily workouts.

According to Mrs. White, had the girls had a strong defense, they would have been more of a top challenger. They competed in the Central Suburban Athletic Conference meet (CSAC) and a sectional meet in which they didn't fare too well. "We were top contenders in the CSAC meet, but we were paired off with the eventual winner."

Next year, however, will be one of rebuilding a new varsity, says Mrs. White. "Five of the six starting varsity girls are seniors this year." Some of the girls who made the team so strong were Cindy Sharp, Cindy Hensley, Cindy Hershey, Marsha Butler, and Delia Curran.

"I'm proud to be on this year's team and to be able to contribute, and that's what it's all about, to contribute," stated Marsha Butler, a senior on the girls' varsity basketball team. The team, according to coaches Mr. and Mrs. Steve Walker, has more depth than those in past years. Both of Warren's girls' basketball squads are gaining acceptance from the school, township, county and state since they won the first Marion County girls' basketball championship.

The varsity team is a very close knit group, as stated by Marsha Butler. "Our team started out by losing the first two games of the season, but during these games we played as individualists. Now we can talk out our problems." Although the team lost their first two games, they began working together and also began winning.

The team's strong point, according to Kim Condra, senior, was their defense. She stated, "Our defense could take on anyone's offense and tear them apart." Another strong asset was the two new coaches. Many team members confided that having Mr. and Mrs. Walker gave them confidence. Beneath it all, though, the strengths did not lie on an individual, but on the team itself.

It was Warren's first year to have a girls' reserve team, and for a beginning team it had an impressive season. The coaches, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Harmon, expressed that "the team has come a long way." To prove this, the coaches led the team to a victory at the Warren Invitational Tourney.

According to Mr. Harmon, the team's best assets were their "man-to-man defense and the fact that they ran a patterned offense. Most of the teams the girls play against don't use either method."

THE PLANNING OF an attack is an essential part of any contest. Members of the junior varsity squad prepare a new strategy for the next quarter of play.

With the arrival of Mr. Carl Hughes, Warren's varsity and junior varsity basketball teams have learned and improved this year. The varsity squad has turned from being a group of individualists to a strong team. According to co-captain Greg Ransom, "The team has grown together as a unit with the leadership from Coach Hughes."

Defeating eighth ranked Columbus North, the varsity team shut off their strong inside game. They also showed giant killer instincts, nipping rival Arlington, 51 to 50.

According to Coach Hughes, the strength of the team was its defense and its ability to out-rebound the opposition. Another strength was a bench of strong substitutes, such as senior Mitch Smock, who in a game against Greenfield, sank two free throws in the last six seconds to insure a victory of 53 to 50. Senior guard Matt Schreiber let fly his "favorite swisher," an 18 footer with 43 seconds left, to edge Warren over Arlington. Other strong players of the season were Harry Hanna, Greg Ransom, Curt Grelle and Phil Napariu.

The junior varsity team, in the words of Coach Frank Debruicker, "is the most intelligent one I've had, but they need more experience." Some members of the team also played varsity ball, such as sophomore co-captains Steve Mifflin and Jeff Freeman.

Girls' sports have grown greatly in popularity during the past few years. Warren's girls' swimming team is an example of this growth. According to Coach Barbara Huston, "The team has shown a lot of good strong team spirit and they are growing closer as a team."

The stroke that has shown the "greatest promise" is the 400 meter freestyle relay in which a school record was set. Other team strengths lie in Julie Brown in the 200 meter freestyle, 400 meter freestyle and 100 meter backstroke. Other strong workers are Donna Combs in the 50 meter freestyle and Melanie Chandler in the 50 meter backstroke.

Warren's team broke the record in the 400 meter freestyle relay with a time of 4:23.0. Competing in the relay were co-captains Cindy Hensley and Donna Combs, Julie Brown and Sharon Gawrys. Julie Brown also broke the 100 meter backstroke record and the 200 meter freestyle record with a time of 2:15.2.

The girls have come a long way since the beginning of the season. The future also looks bright for this team with many sophomores and juniors returning next year. In the words of Mrs. Huston, "The team doesn't work only for themselves, but they also have worked to help the team more than in past years."

*3-way meet

WORKING ON PRECISION components of his difficult dives, senior Dave Huston has his form under control as he strives to meet the water with a slight splash.

Through the vast rippling waters of pools around the state, varsity swimmers swam in meets in which they came out on top, 14 out of 18 times. Their success could be attributed to the hard work and long hours spent at practice.

During the after-school practices, the squad drilled on bettering old times and trying to reach personal records. Besides swimming many miles in practice to get in shape, other varsity team members had another important event to work on.

Diving was termed by Mr. Con Keller, varsity coach, as the event in which the team was the strongest by sending two divers, Dave Huston and Chris Gentry, to the state meet. To practice for a certain style of dive, many times the diver will employ a trampoline to work on form before going on to the real thing in the water.

Compiling their 14-4 record took much effort on the parts of all team members. Besides getting mentally prepared for competition and working during practices before meets, the swimmers have to endure long bus rides to places such as Richmond and Muncie. They won at Muncie, but lost at Richmond.

Relay teams showed their strength during the meets by capturing first place in most of the meets all season. Mr. Keller talked highly of the team members and he felt that the 1974-1975 team was the strongest, most talented group he has ever coached at Warren, which is a tribute to the guys who worked all the hours they did to achieve the record that they did.

HUMOR WAS EVIDENT during practice, even as the state meet was approaching. Coach Con Keller and senior Bill Peters laugh at the antics of a teammate.

VARSITY SWIM TEAM first row: Lee Huss, Dave Huston, Mike Bunker, Chris Gentry, Mark Slack, Bob Upchurch, Robin Snider, Dave Bonitz. Team strokes by heavy competition

AS THE WATERS part for senior speedster Mike Kelley, he gulps a bit of air and watches the edge of the pool as he finishes a length of the breaststroke. Mike came in second in the state for the breaststroke. He was State Champion of this event as a junior.

TAKING A BITE of air before plunging his head back into the cold wetness, senior Kevin Dunlap strokes smoothly in the freestyle event at practice.

GAINING BALANCE AND composure for a difficult back dive, senior Dave Huston readies to fling himself backwards doing rolls and twists before he meets the water.

CONCENTRATING ON SOMETHING important, senior Bill Peters stares at the inviting water before it is his turn to swim during practice.

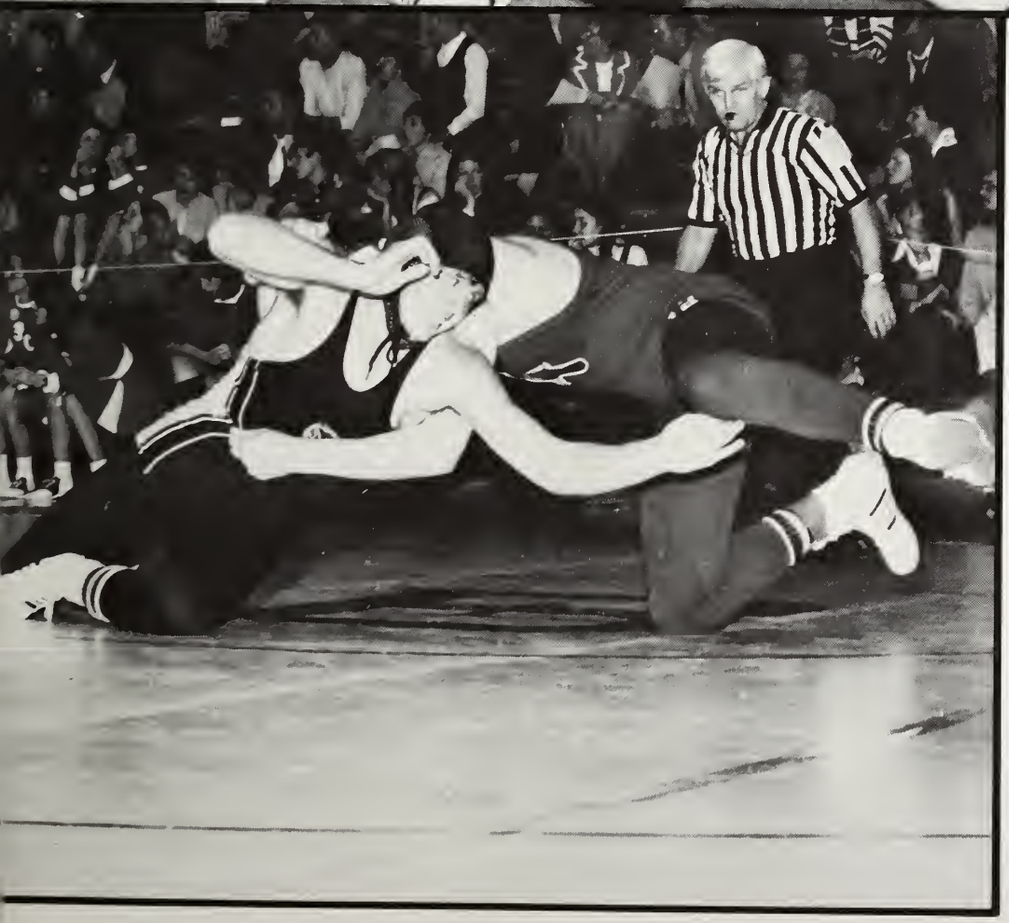
TAKING HIS TIME with his calculated moves, sophomore David Pavey rocks his opponent backwards into the guillotine (above left).

PRYING HARD INTO his opponents back, senior Scott Spencer, the third boy to ever become a state champion, works toward a victory in varsity competition.

TOWARDS THE LATTER portion of the meet, senior Steve Rumple, the muscleman of the varsity, works for a lateral drop.



AGAINST HIS LAWRENCE Central opponent, senior Ken Denton works to turn him over by stacking him up on his head.

WITH AN AGGRESSIVE scowl and a look of determination, sophomore Kurt Kleine works for a switch and two points in varsity competition.

During a successful varsity season, the voice of power spoke with authority as the varsity squad rambled along, undefeated in 10 dual meets. During the dual meet schedule, one of the brightest points of the season was the meet at North Central. Their victory resulted in a 4-0 record and a fine start towards an eventual unscathed record.

Desire and dedication are essential elements of a good wrestling team. Coach Gene Nesbit felt that way. "This year's wrestling team has shown much desire and dedication for wrestling and for the school. We have a fine group of seniors and a strong bunch of juniors and sophomores."

Topping off the season, the team placed fifth in the state meet. Scott Spencer, 138-pound senior, captured the state title in his division handily by outclassing his opponent in the final match, 11-3. Steve Rumple, also a senior, finished third in the state at 185 pounds.

During the course of the season, the CSAC meet came along. It had some surprises in store for the whole conference. The varsity squad defeated the county champions, Ben Davis, to win the conference title by putting them away for good with four wins out of four matches against the Giants.

Sending five grapplers to the regional meet, the Warriors swept through their sectionals in style, reaping in 98½ points and leaving their nearest competitor in a cloud of smoke.

Underclass pins 10-0 record

THROWING ON ONE of the most painful holds to be in, sophomore David Pavey stretches on the guillotine as the referee looks on.

Showing that their main asset was desire and the will to win, the junior varsity wrestling squad pinned their way to victory in crucial matches throughout the season.

Meeting such standout teams as Ben Davis and Mooresville in separate eight-way tournaments, they went on to victory in both. Mr. Don Foreman, a veteran of several seasons, said, "We were down by 10 points in the closing matches of the Beech Grove eight-way. The guys could have given up, but they went on to win at the end. Desire is what did it." Other crucial meets, the North Central and Southport meets, were major hurdles to an undefeated season of 10-0.

Since North Central was the only team to defeat Warren in 1973-1974, this year's victory was not only gratifying but it also stifled the year-old grudge against their northside foes. To prepare for a match of that type, the workout before the meet is most important.

Each practice has separate parts dedicated to different aspects of wrestling. One part of practice was dedicated for general conditioning and agility, and others for a chance to obtain knowledge of wrestling. After learning this, the squad works on the practical use of this knowledge for a meet.

"This was a good year for me. It was very interesting. I appreciated the opportunity to work with the team the whole season. It was gratifying that they accepted me," concluded Coach Foreman.

PUSHING AGAINST HIS opponent, Jeff Turner, sophomore, controls his adversary by driving him into the mat.

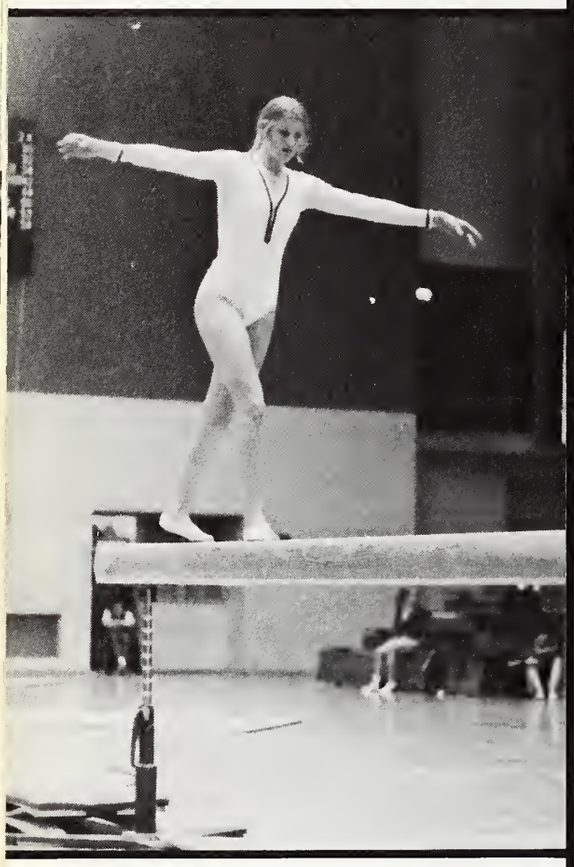
Just as sure as the sun rises each morning, the boys' gymnastics team would have a long practice every day to prepare for their upcoming meets.

Throughout the long season of the gymnasts, the Warriors disclosed their abilities before challengers and they came out on top many times. To insure success, performances by individuals were always as strong and precise as needed to capture a good score and first place. Seniors Jim Buchanan, Jim Runkel, and Ben Hammontree helped reap in good scores in this highly individualized sport.

Working with routines on events, such as the side-horse, floor exercise, trampoline vaulting, high bar and parallel bars takes dedication from the gymnast, not only in long practices but also in meets when all the long hours of practice are combined into one effort.

WHIZZING AROUND THE uneven bars, sophomore Mary Ellabarger holds her form and readys to dismount at the end of her routines. She took third in all-around State competition.



ON A BEAM of wood about four inches wide, Dawn Payne, sophomore, works out a difficult routine before an appreciative group of spectators.

WORKING ON HER balance beam routine during practice, senior Dianne Payne grins as graduate Linda Holtz spots for her. Dianne placed second in the State for all-around. She was first in this division last year.

Graceful girls show finesse, style

MERGING POISE AND grace into her routine, senior Dianne Payne dances along the balance beam during practice.

TOWARD THE MIDDLE of the season, practices were dedicated to improvement of routines. Lori Koehlinger, sophomore, vaults from the springboard as other team members wait their turns.

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS FIRST row: Mrs. Jean Reed, coach; Debbie Meise, Lynn Worland, Sharon Flowers, Lori Koehlinger, Denise Gowin, Mary Ellabarger.

Much improved and more experienced, the girls' gymnastics team vaulted through their season with grace and style. While compiling a good record during the season, the team captured the conference championship, defeating four other schools in fierce competition.

Featuring good showings in events, such as the uneven bars, the girls displayed finesse with talent that Mrs. Jean Reed termed "state champion material." Coach Reed said the season was uphill all the way. In the struggles of a demanding season, the varsity gymnasts showed a lot of desire in dual meets, tournaments and practice.

Workouts were long and hard, demanding total concentration and strenuous work on routines. At the beginning of the season, the girls worked on development of routines and getting into shape. After the season progressed, practices were dedicated to refining their optional routines. Coach Reed said that there are four qualities which are shown by her gymnasts. "They are hard workers, intensely involved in practice, very determined and they endure much pain. They're an excellent bunch of girls and I'm pleased to work with them."

Boys receive chance to compete

ATTEMPTING TO GET off a short jump shot is junior Bobby Newcomb while under heavy coverage.

For the boys that didn't make the basketball teams during the winter, the place to compete was in the Intramural Basketball League. Most teams have unusual names, ranging from "The Second Helping" to the "Moons." Every Monday since November, many sophomores, juniors and seniors met on a common battle ground of Warren's gymnasium.

All teams tried hard to improve in an effort to have the best record and also to win their league's championship.

"Any boy who did not make any of the school basketball teams could join," stated sponsor Mr. Alan Miedema. In the senior league, the champion team was "The Second Helping" in an overtime game which they won by one point. The junior league victors were "Thompson's Turkeys," who defeated "The Wizards," 48-31. For the sophomore league title, the "Pinball Wizards" edged by the "Bogarts," 41-40. As for the boys' overall attitude, Mr. Miedema replied, "They were out to win every game as if they were championship games."

Curriculum

SENIOR BRIANE HOUSE becomes lost in his studies while concentrating on sample tax forms.

As the world rapidly changes day by day so does the realm of academic studies at Warren Central. Examples of this are the new phase-elective programs in the English and Science departments. These changes, along with the desire of other departments to add phase-elective programs, add to the confusion.

Students express feelings in art

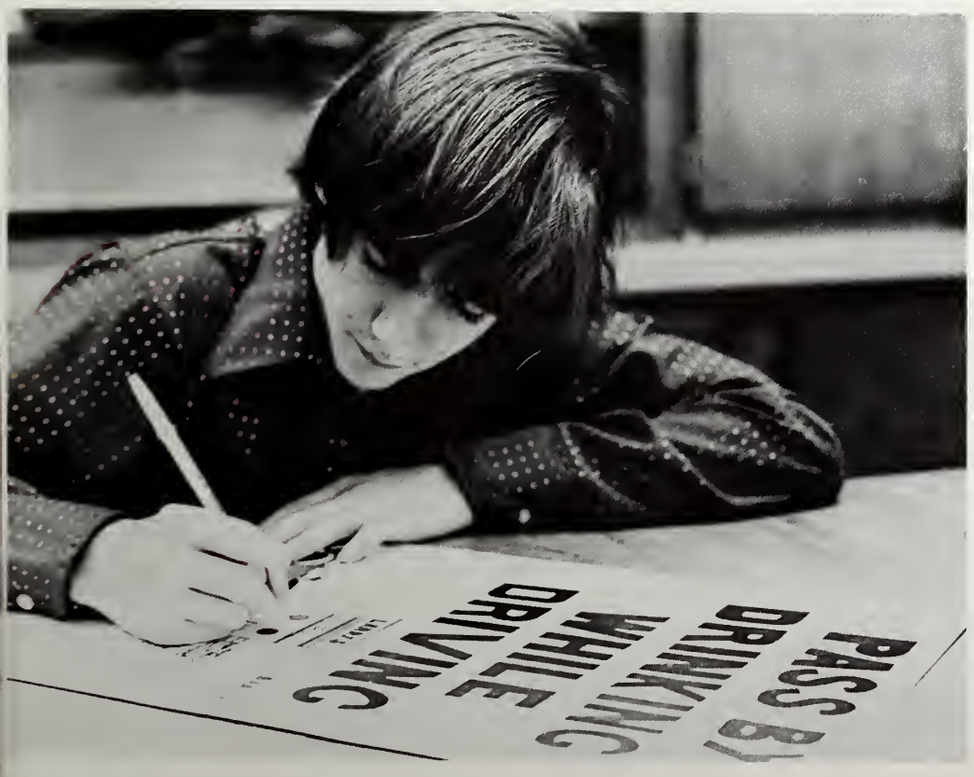
JUNIOR TOM DIXON is captured in a creative moment as he works diligently on his wood sculpture.

STEADY AND PRECISE work is involved in jewelry making as senior Kevin Nobblitt demonstrates.

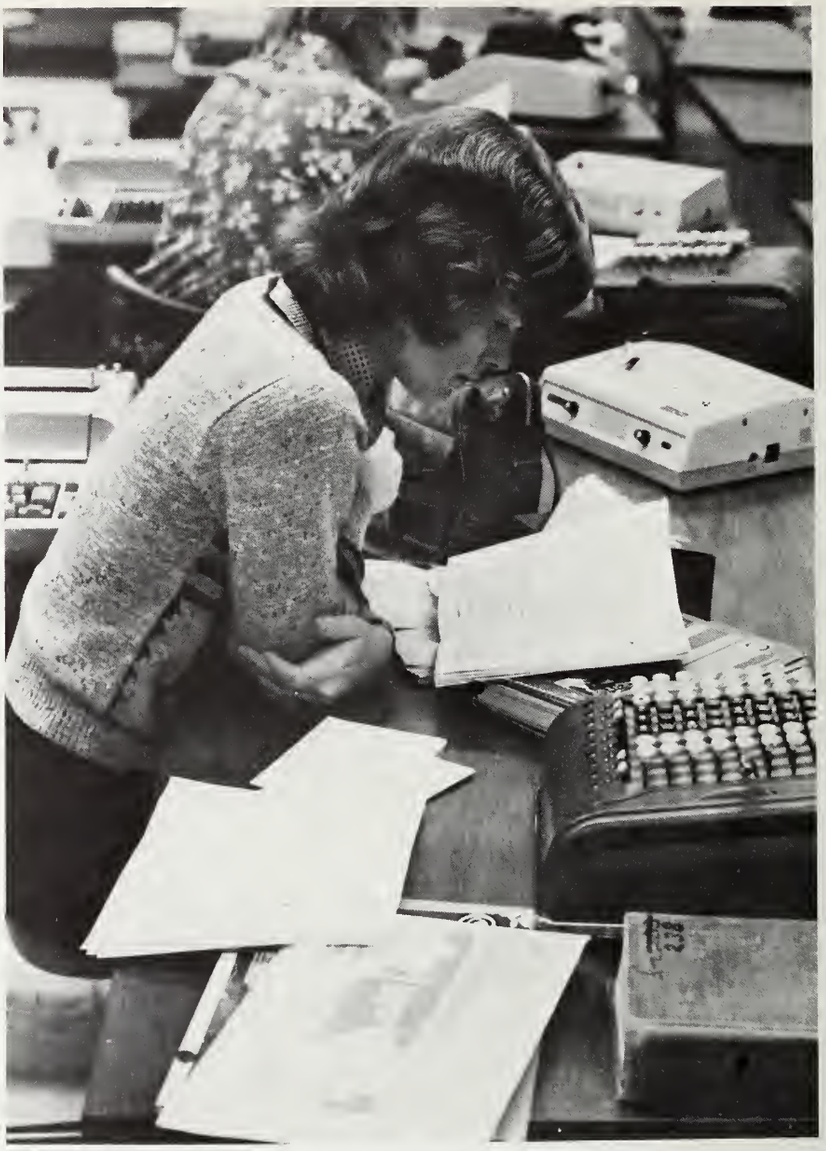
Creating with their minds and hands, students acquire their sense of self-expression in Warren's art classes. The Art Department, headed by Mr. James Fish, allows the future artists to express their own feelings in their work whether it be on canvas, in sculpture or in personal jewelry they make.

Often projects of particular interest are on display in the art gallery.

Also in the art gallery old-time movies are shown to interested students during activity periods.



A USEFUL MESSAGE is communicated in work done by senior Howard Grounds.



Providing skills which students want is one of the main purposes of the Business Department. Headed by Mr. Eldon McKenzie, it provides the student with a personal or professional use of business techniques.

Courses available to students are beginning and advanced typing, shorthand, clerical practice, accounting and consumer business.

Most students really like the courses which enable them to handle their own personal business, as well as learning a "saleable" skill.

STUDYING THE BASIC functions of a business office, Cindy Schulz, senior, sees how she can apply them to the future.

CAREFULLY CHECKING FOR errors in her accounting sheets, Kim Cousert, senior, concentrates to the utmost.

Competition in contests was also done this year. One was at Castleton Square shopping center where students competed against 22 other DECA chapters.

Students who won trophies were seniors Richard Leben and Jeff White and juniors Dave Johnson and Denise Ewbank, under the direction of a new adviser this year—Mr. S. D. Atkins.

94% of English students enjoy selecting own classes

A new era of teaching has stepped into Warren's English Department, headed by Mr. Myles Eley. The new format consists of electives from which the students select the English courses they desire.

Sophomores still must take the traditional 10th grade English course as background for the electives. Juniors and seniors can take courses ranging from Western literature to science fiction, or the study of the roles of man and woman to Biblical literature.

For many students the general study of English was of little interest. However, the availability of the electives heightened the interest and enrollment in English classes.

WHILE RICK MERRIMAN and Lynda Lawrence write essays on HUCKLEBERRY FINN in a sophomore English class, Mrs. Karen Wittorf offers a few pointers to Tim King.

MS. ANN ELY of the Indianapolis Star holds a class discussion on the current scene in newspapers in a mass media class.

NHS increases activities

Boosting school spirits, giving a helping hand to the student who feels lost in his studies and conducting the annual spaghetti supper were only a few of the many things a National Honor Society member did.

During the weeks before Homecoming, Honor Society members were out in the halls and the cafeteria promoting their "Go Warriors" spirit buttons. Along with that, the Honor Society also started a new tutoring service. Members volunteered to tutor students in certain subject areas, including those of the elementary grades.

Some other activities included preparing for the Bicentennial Celebration. The society presented "200 Minutes" which told of historical happenings of the past 200 years. A kite flying contest was held, in commemoration of Benjamin Franklin's historic experience.

SENIOR KEVIN DUNLAP smiles proudly as he is inducted into the Honor Society by Mr. Herbert Korra and Mr. Clifford Gates.

SENIORS LISA SMITH, Karen Little and Sandy Campbell enjoy their jobs serving dinners at the annual spaghetti supper.

It's a lot more than books

KAREN FISSE, SENIOR, prepares to use the Xerox copying machine available in the Media Center.

Warren Central's library is a lot more than books. Actually, as its title states, it is a media center. Many forms of media can be found here, including books, magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, records, films, tapes and filmstrips. Also available to teachers and students is the copying machine.

During each period of the day, classes can be found in the media center looking up research materials for reports and projects. Many students use some of the center's 13,622 different books for recreational reading. Students also come to the media center to relax and read the magazines and newspapers.

Teachers also can utilize the special teachers' library to find information on education or simply relax, study or grade papers on the new Scan-Tron grading machine.

Warren's media center provides educational opportunities for any person who wants to better himself.

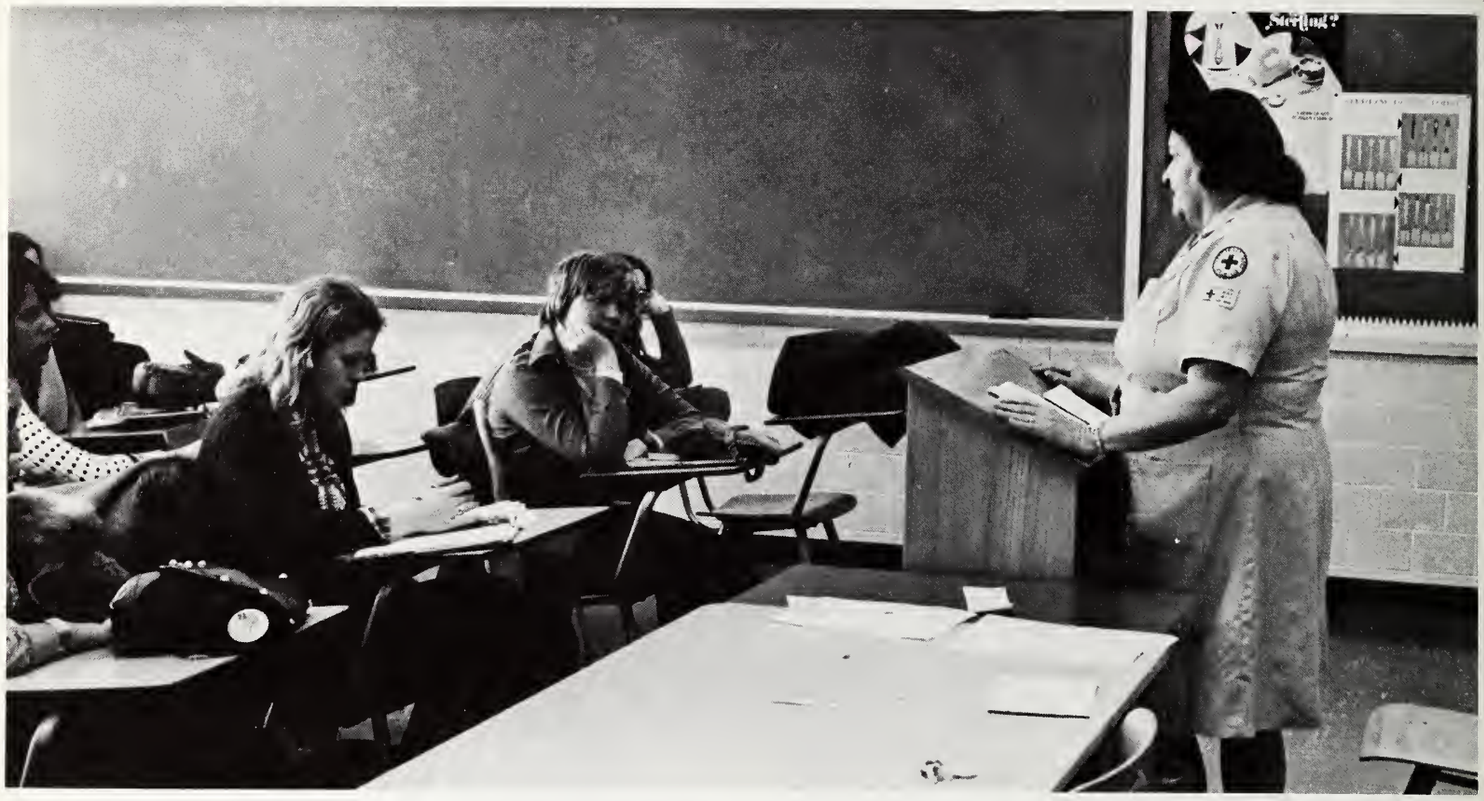
Broadened curriculum offers insight to life in future



LISTENING TO MRS. Kutemeier, a Red Cross volunteer, speak about home nursing are sophomores Kathy Newcomb and Cindy Moore.

MEASURING AND CUTTING precisely, juniors Kelley Fitzwater, Loretta Hogue, Karen Hudson and Vera Machala strive to make a perfect fit.

When you mention the subject of home economics, the first thing that usually comes to mind is cooking and sewing. However, Warren's Home Ec Department has been broadened in the last few years in order to keep up with an ever-changing society. Today Warren offers many other classes, such as housing, consumer buying, child care and home nursing.

Home ec at Warren is not just geared to the girl who plans on being a wife and mother but to career girls as well. For instance, in foods classes a girl must prepare and serve a dish and then clean her kitchen in 55 minutes. In sewing classes a girl must learn how to use her time wisely in order to complete her outfit on schedule. She must learn to budget her time so that she can cut, press or sew her garment and still have enough time to put away her supplies until the next time.

By taking some of the many classes offered in home ec, a girl can receive some insight as to what her life may be like in the future.

MAKING SURE EVERYTHING is mixed properly, junior Linda Pettit enjoys working in the foods lab.

AFTER SPENDING LONG hours preparing a meal in their foods class, Denise Schmedel, junior, and Jo Deen Poor, senior, enjoy the fruits of their labor.

IN TRANSPORTATION JUNIOR Brad Thiede concentrates on making the right adjustments on an engine.

SOPHOMORE JEFF MIESSEN works intently on the lathe to put the finishing touches on a bowl to be used as his project in wood shop.

Industrial arts teaches skills

Industrial arts is a department where students learn valuable skills which can be used to help establish an occupation in some specialized area. The Industrial Arts Department is divided into diversified areas that include printing, electronics, transportation, wood shop and machine shop. A total of 40 classes are taught each day.

Shop is not representative of ordinary courses at Warren. In all classes the students gain much of their knowledge through personal experience. For examples, in transportation actual cars are serviced and the printing classes do various printing jobs for the school. The print shop prints student identification cards, tickets for school functions and The Owl in the first semester. Students enrolled in wood shop are able to display their talents for building furniture and learn new ways to perfect their projects.

Because of the wide variety of areas offered, industrial arts is one of the most popular departments.

MEASURING THE VOLTAGE hook-up in electronics are senior Ed Chaves and junior Jim Fitch.

IN MECHANICAL DRAFTING class senior Mark Armour makes the minutes clear and precise on his drawing.

Vocational education expands, moves in new direction

In a time of changing ideas of education, it is now believed that a basic background of English, science and math should also be backed up by experience directly related to the job one plans on entering after leaving school.

Eight out of 10 jobs in America do not require a college degree. However, 2.5 million young people a year graduated from high school or college or dropped out of high school or college with no planned career in mind and no marketable skills. Yet, on the other hand, only .5 per cent of the jobs available require no skill.

Mr. Scott Chandler, coordinator of career education, and others in the township hope that Warren's career center, which is scheduled to open in the fall of 1976, will prepare students for the world of work immediately after high school graduation.

THE FIRST SIGNS of the actual building of the career center were observed this school year.

Exploratory teaching helps students plan for future

MISS JOYCE BOST, a teacher at Sunny Heights, and her class await the arrival of their exploratory teacher.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL STUDENTS gaze into space in wondering how a high school student can become a teacher.

Several students pursuing a career in education are taking a course called exploratory teaching. The course is open to any senior in the upper 50 per cent of the class who has good recommendations from teachers and counselors.

Four days out of the week students must attend a half hour of class at the school they have chosen. One day out of each six weeks the exploratory teachers spend a full day with their classes. This system is new and was devised by social studies teacher and program adviser Mr. Larry Kelly.

The exploratory teacher may teach any grade, kindergarten through ninth, on the subject of their choice.

Exploratory teachers must participate in three "experiences" (teaching three different grade levels) during the one semester course. Each "experience" is five weeks in length.

When senior Roger Schmelzer was asked what he felt about the course, he stated, "It was very worthwhile and helped me decide what my future plans would be.

WHILE ON PLAYGROUND duty, senior Gina Cherry gives a little push to Fred Klepinger, a third grader at Sunny Heights Elementary School.

SENIORS CINDY PARRISH, Nanette Marquette, Gina Cherry and Cindy Pavey arrive at Sunny Heights for a day of teaching.

DURING HER COMPUTER math class, junior Bev Bennet studies the computer print-out sheet for an assignment.

Understanding the structure of the mathematical system, applying the information to similar situations and using it as background knowledge in life are some of the major principles of the Math Department. The department, headed by Mr. Robert Ledger, offers such courses as algebra, geometry, computer math and unified math.

It is the opinion of the department that students be supplied with some knowledge of math, whether or not they major in it or take it on a one class basis. Reasoning is one of the necessary aspects of life, and mathematics helps to train the student in this reasoning process.

Students apply systems to everyday life

NOW THAT CALCULATORS have been lowered in price, they are quite often utilized by students in the classroom as demonstrated by sophomore Lisa Mahn.

STUDENTS LEARN THE intricacies of algebra from Ms. Horn.

Music classes add variety to students' schedules

With 11 classes devoted to music each day, it is evident that music is a large part of Warren Central. Approximately one-sixth of the student body is enrolled in music classes.

Throughout the school year time is well spent by rehearsing for concerts. Preparing for these concerts by learning how to express the music, and depending on the group, learning various dance steps, is a major goal of Warren's musicians. It usually takes 25 class periods and several night rehearsals to prepare for a concert.

The first musical activity of every school year is the half-time show, presented by the Marching Band, under the direction of Mr. James Chandler. Mr. Chandler also is in charge of the Concert and Symphonic bands. Mr. Robert Beckley rehearses daily with the Symphony and Concert orchestras. Mr. Philip Dunn and Miss Barbara Robertson lead the six vocal groups in what they like to do most, singing to provide entertainment for others.

SOPHOMORES LINDA FOUST and Monica Hartley, both members of Warrenaires, participate in a serious vocal number.

DISPLAYING HIS INTEREST in music, Karl Heitman, junior, performs with the Symphonic Band on the timpani.

CELLISTS SANDY GLASS, senior, and Kim Johannessohn, junior, add to the sound of the Symphonic Orchestra.

MR. JAMES CHANDLER, Band director, guides the Symphonic Band on stage in preparation for a concert.

Mental, moral, social and physical growth are a few of the basic fundamentals of physical education classes. Students are tested on game rules and then put their knowledge to use through such activities as football, basketball, soccer, volleyball and field hockey. Girls, as well as boys, participate in these games.

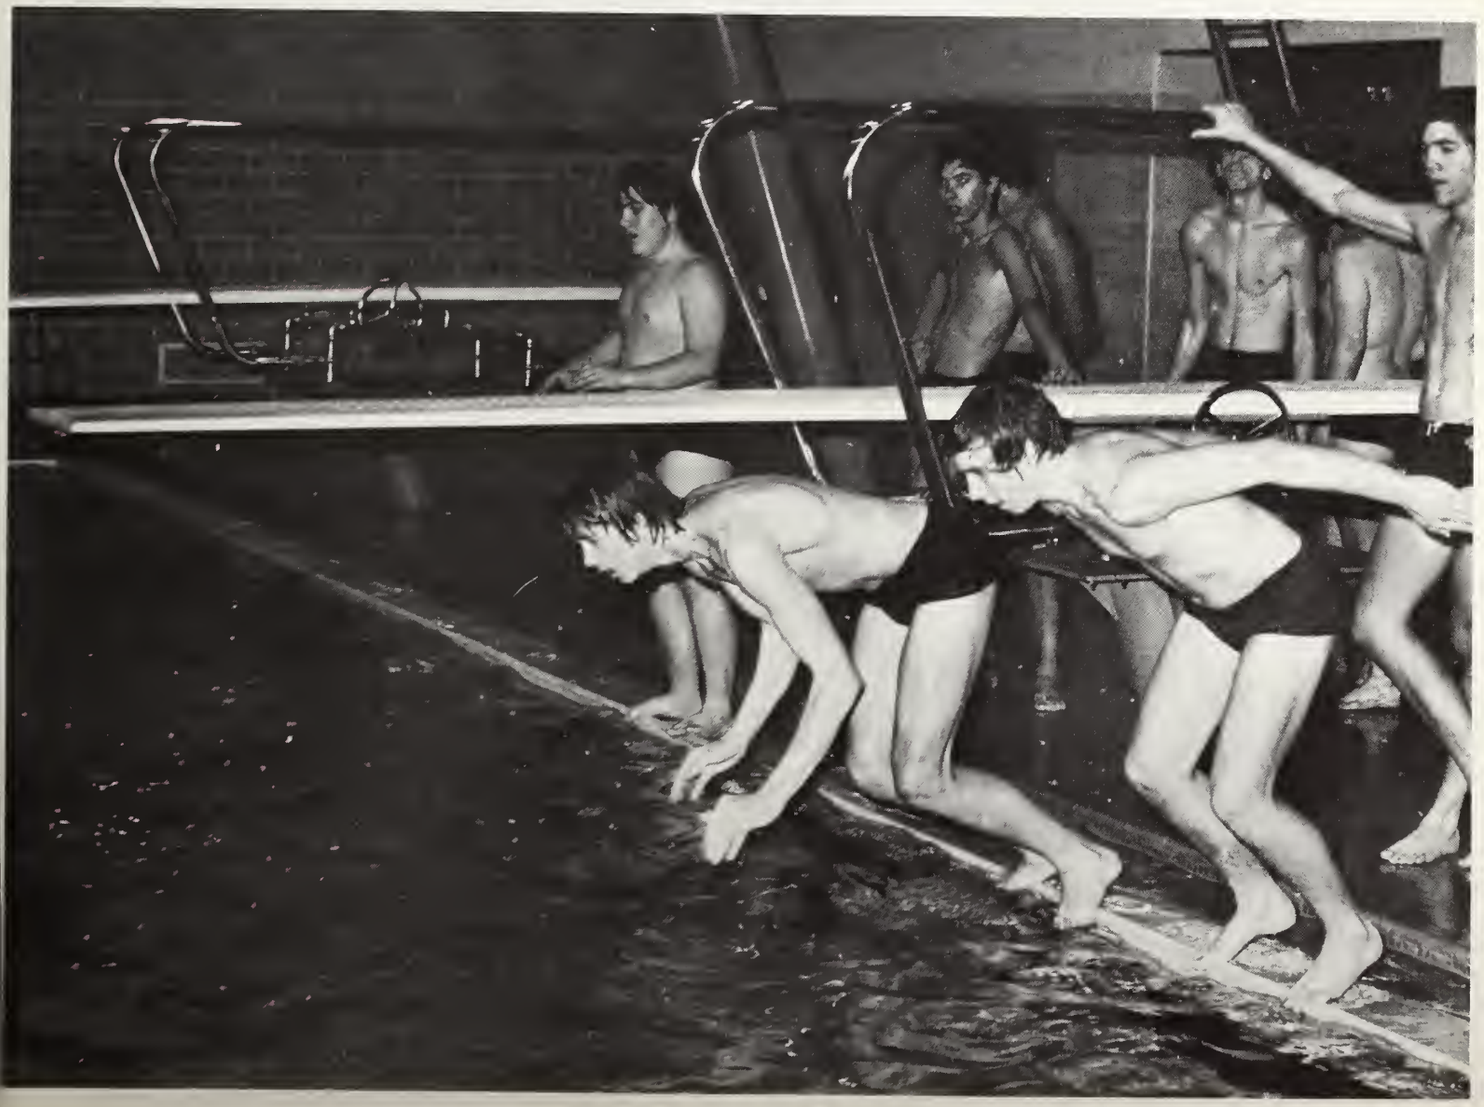
One six weeks out of every semester students take swimming. After being tested, students are placed in beginning, intermediate, advanced or life saving classes. Many times the training received in the swimming classes can make the difference in a life and death situation.

CAGEBALL, ALWAYS A popular game, is enjoyed by both boys and girls as an exciting game.

Phys. Ed. promotes development

SOPHOMORES SHERRY SWAIN, Joy Richardson, Pam Payne and Allen Vester enjoy the easy styles of square dancing.

IN BEGINNING SWIMMING, boys are required to swim several laps a day. Sophomores Kevin Stanley and Craig Toth look on, while their classmates Scott Lambert and Mark Thomas, sophomores, start their laps.



Whether one is aware of it or not, science is a basic and necessary part of everyday life. That is the reason for the importance of science classes at Warren Central.

Studying the universe, various substances used frequently and the whys and wherefores of man are some of the many ways in which students become better informed about their environment and the changes that it undergoes daily.

By dealing with all of science, from the earliest man to the most recent discoveries, the student is better able to understand the conditions that he lives under and how rapidly they change.

SOPHOMORE LISA TIMMONS prepares to open a clam with her scalpel during a dissecting session in her biology class.

DURING BIOLOGY, SOPHOMORES Bob McClurg, Linda Miller and Pam Wampner observe and sketch cells.

CHERYL HOOSER, JUNIOR, carefully observes the chemicals with which she is experimenting.

Science makes rapid change easier

SENIOR LISA OWENS and junior Diana Proctor look over the shoulders of Mr. Leo Hine and Mr. Ken Retherford, teachers, while they examine fossils on a field trip to southern Indiana's coal mines.

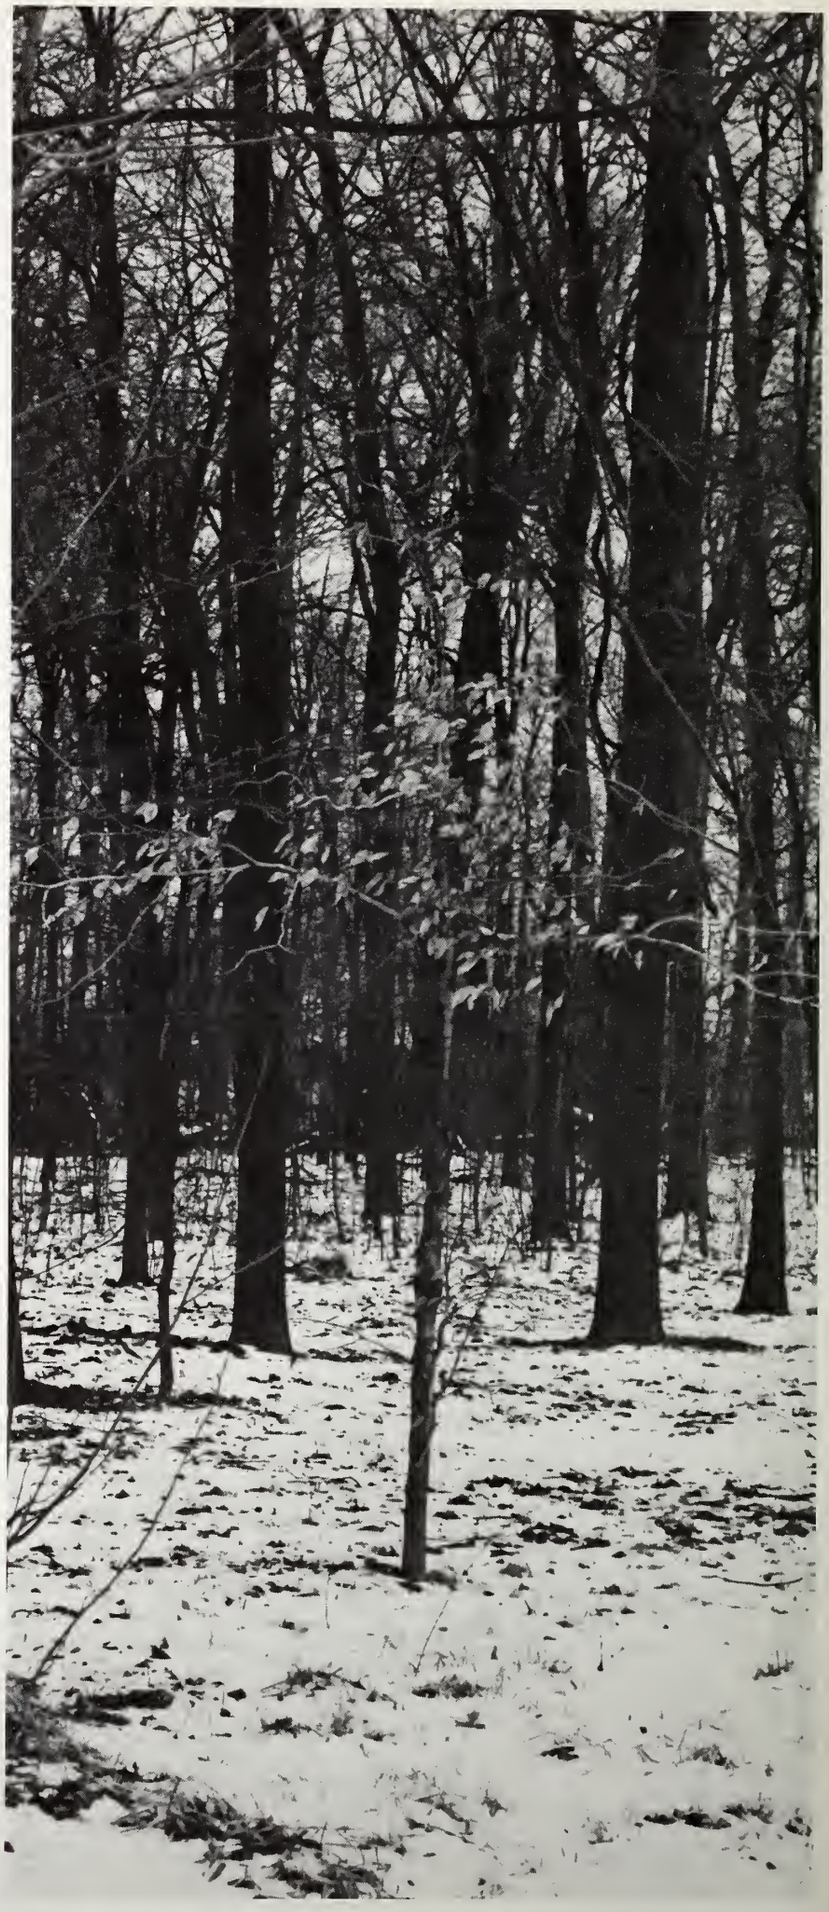
CROW may rescue woods

Many changes have been seen in the 1975 school year in the Warren Science Department. One of the many proposals announced was an outdoor laboratory. CROW (Committee Rescuing Our Woods) suggests that 15 acres of what is now known as the woods should be developed into a township-wide environmental education laboratory.

Signs will be posted designating the area as an educational center, which if completed, will include trails, wildlife food plots, fruit and seed plants for birds, erosion stoppage and the possibility of a pond.

The outdoor program would be open to elementary teachers as well as other organizations. It is also hoped that every department in the school will become involved. There could be graduate credit programs in the summer by working in the outdoor laboratory development.

PERHAPS IN THE future students will have the chance to explore and utilize the township's natural resources.



WHEN AND IF the outside laboratory is completed, this sign will be exchanged for a welcoming one.

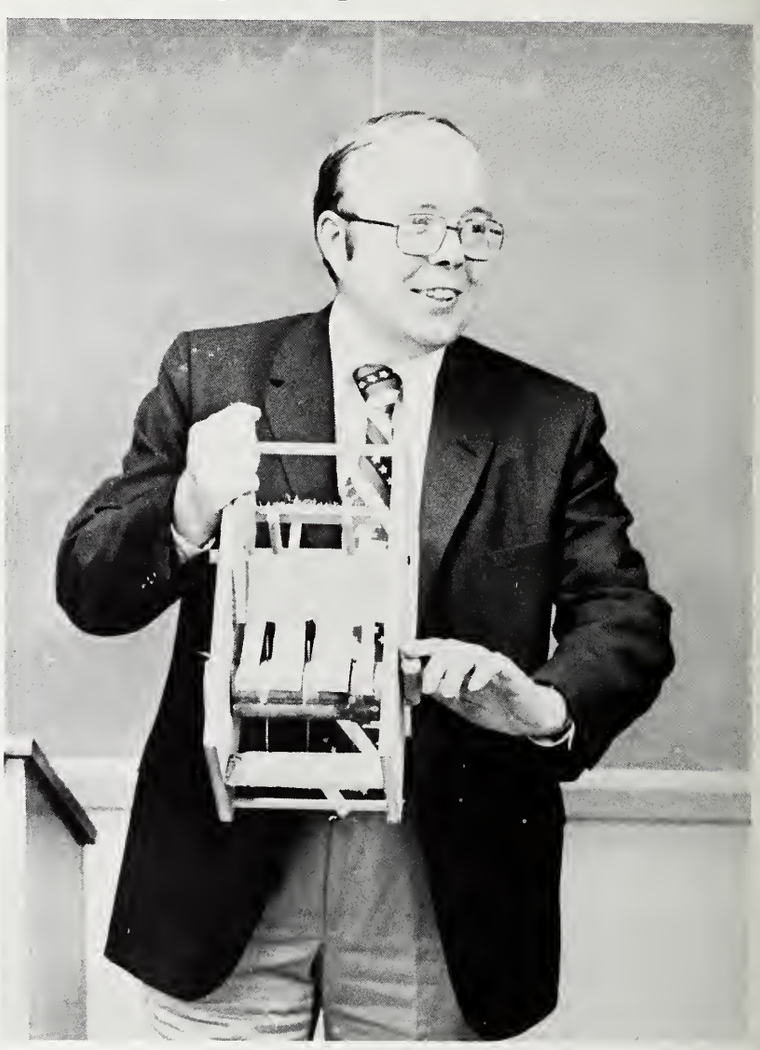
Social studies teaches value of historic, current events

Interest and value go hand-in-hand. This is the view taken by the many people that are involved in the Social Studies Department. The main purpose of these classes is to teach the student the value of the world around him, develop a respect for the earth's resources and teach how to grow and plan for the future.

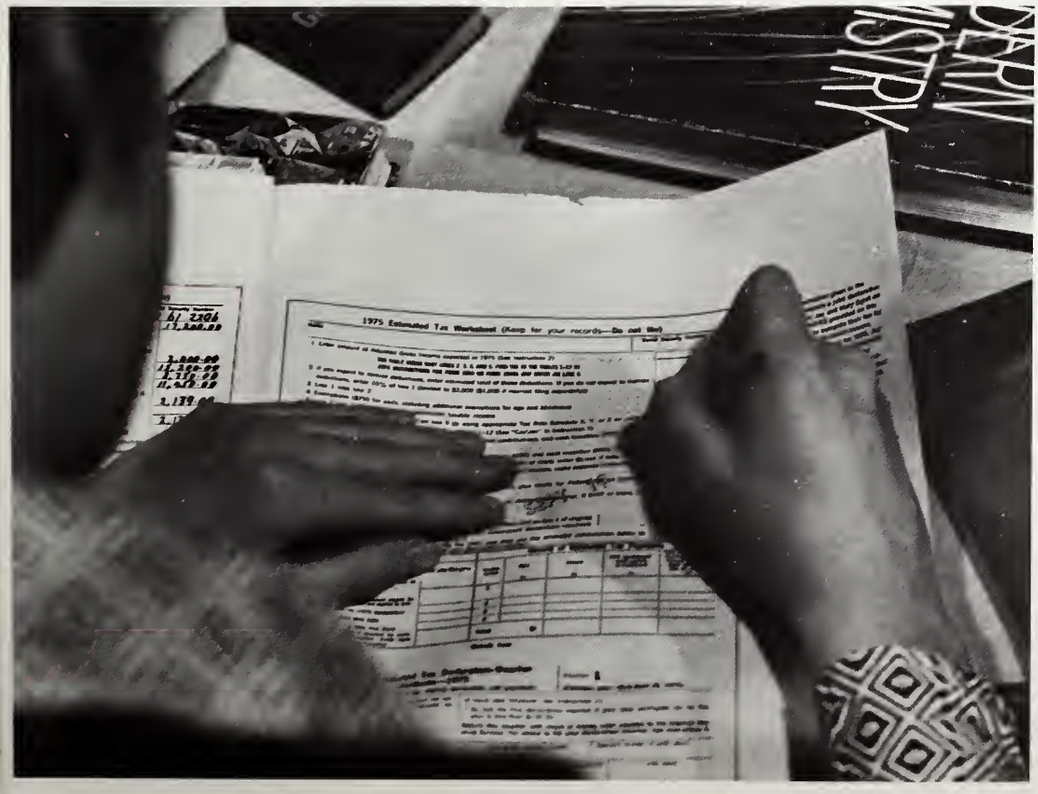
Government is a more timely and interesting subject because of the eighteen-year-old vote and issues, such as Watergate, inflation and energy. In the spring, Girls' and Boys' State candidates are chosen by members of the department to represent Warren at a week-long seminar in mock government. Here students can put their knowledge to use.



MR. HERBERT KORRA shows his U. S. history class the importance of the cotton gin.

WARREN WAS REPRESENTED at Girls' State by Cristy Crago, Pam Lohman and Kay Walker, while the delegates to Boys' State were Tim O'Connell, Brian Bauer and Greg Anderson.

BEING USED AS experimental objects, white rats play an important part in psychology classes in determining mental and physical relationships.



SINCE MANY STUDENTS hold jobs, they must cope with the time and expense it takes to file income tax returns. To help them out, government classes include a session where students fill out practice tax return forms.

Self-expression

To be creative, one must have originality in thought and execution. A person can express himself creatively in many ways, mainly through writing and art.

To be able to write expressively, a person must rely on his inner thoughts. He must concentrate on the subject and approach it slowly. The more original the subject is, the more creative it is.

Almost anyone can be creative. It's just a matter of being able to express yourself in a visible way.

SENIOR YVONNE GUY expresses herself by making pottery in her art class.

'till the end is near.
And then you'll know
It's perfectly dear,

It's time to go
Leave it all.
So, forget what you know
Until next fall.

Friendship is a funny thing,
Friends may come and go.
Some things I'm not sure about
But you're my friend, that I know.

Friendships happen for many reasons—
For a companion, from a need,
For someone just to laugh with—
And you my friend—are a friend indeed.

Some people only go to friends
In times when they feel low.
Both good and bad times, you're always there
My love, my friend, thank you so!

I can see the moon flash a smile at me
I can hear the waves break from the sea

I can talk to the trees, they understand
I can imagine all the flowers singing
And enjoy all the love the sun is bringing Soon breaks the dawn
And all the beautiful world is gone

Because I still have you

When you are by my side

About the way I feel for you
And I wish that you could

Softly the clouds glide by
The night is dark and lonely
Is this why I want to cry?

There are no stars tonight
To make a wish upon
I feel so lost and empty
My sense of feeling is gone

The hope of you returning
Is floating away from me
Yet, I no longer try to grasp it
I let it slip by slowly

Remembering is as painful
As the sorrow of forgetting
The heartaches cling to you
Long after the parting

So as the night dies away
My love will go with it
No longer will I cling to you
Like you, I shall forget

a tree listens
every leaf moves touches feels the wind
passes lost and forgotten
roots grow life branches and remembers
the wind
bends
a tree
lost
and forgotten
in forest green
the wind
remembers
too

The only real beauty that is assured to us all is in nature
and it's slowly slipping through our fingers.

Lonely.
Deserted.
Hopeless and helpless,
I stand alone
against this harsh world to fight for right.

To live is to reach out.
Reach out and touch
the world around you.

To touch, if only
For one brief second,

to give them a warm
smile to show you care, or give a helpful gesture.

To live you have to tell
the world you're alive,
tell them I am here,
I am living, and I care!

To live to the fullest,
express every thought,
and fulfill every dream
you have to be yourself.

If being yourself is quiet,
amiable, or unpredictable,
Then be it; but always care for others.

To live
To care
To be yourself

They are a part of the life you have to live.

Michele Myers

My sweet dreamland
Is where people
Are people, through
And through, not masks.

My sweet dreamland
Is one where folks
Don't have to hide
Inhibitions.

My sweet dreamland
Is one where I'm Always close to Someone like you.

Tall and green
Living your life in the desert
Never moving,
Your image
Sticks
In my mind

Peggy Rusterholz

Standing alone
Striving to go as high as possible
Amid rocks and crags of an ugly gray earth
Softly highlighted by a heavenly light
I've heard of some men like that.

Tim Leonard

To be the essence of a flower,
A life-long dream,
Lingers ever lightly
On the tongue of gentle rain.

The fragrance rises slowly
As the voiceful raindrops seep
Into the heart of nature
And bid the flowers weep.

Tears are of the essence;
And, hidden by the rain,
The aromatic droplets
Make perfume of pain.

Kristi Hoy

I sometimes seem Wooden,
Hard;
Frutitious.
Though I
Seem strong,
I need much
Support;
Because I am easily
Broken.

Mike Shayl

In the beginning,
We were equal.
We began to grow
and mature.
Everyone went separate ways.
Later, we are
altogether again
Intertwined, dependent on each other . . .
Society

Peter Krug

Anger is a complex maze
Thoughts and feelings run together.
Tangled emotions weave in and out of each other.
Life and all sanity is lost,
distorted.

Becky Foxworthy

When I am cold, your presence keeps me warm.
When I am sad, your presence fills me with joy.
When I am lonely, your presence
cheers my heart.

When there is war within me your presence brings me inner peace.

When I am with you the best of me is you!

Words,
feelings,
happenings,
never mean anything
until you loved something or someone in someway
much more and far deeper than anyone else could ever love it.

Vicki Rumford

Somewhere
out there in the horizon of our lives together
There will come a day when I have learned well enough to be me and loved strong enough to find you

That between the skies of all our dreams and the grounds of reality,
We will reach the connecting mountain

And in doing so,
create such a rainbow of colors
That even the sun will turn her head to us and wink her eye in approval.

Although you may seem to be only one face out of the confusing masses, you are an individual, a totally unique personality. As time progresses, you begin to make friends and become involved in groups. This makes the size of the crowd seem to get smaller. You begin to feel more comfortable and at ease, which means you're getting closer to the end of CONFUSION.

What takes place after 3:10 p.m.?

Have you ever thought about the outside life of one of your teachers or of an administrator? Or about the big mystery that takes place after 3:10 p.m.? Or what hobbies and activities they enjoy?

To some teachers, teaching is just another job, while to others, teaching is a way of life. However, no matter which outlook a teacher has of his job, it is interesting to see how he pursues his outside interests. For instance, many of the teachers enjoy gardening, sewing, and outdoor recreations of one form or another. While other teachers, men and women, go for the more invigorating and daring hobbies: skydiving, flying, motorcycling and boating. Still other teachers enjoy exploring different philosophies, new topics and fields of work other than their own.

MR. GATES, ASSISTANT principal, states, "Golf (his favorite hobby) not only is a great challenge, but it gives me a chance to relax after being inside all day."

WARREN TOWNSHIP'S SCHOOL board of directors are Mr. John K. Bandy, president; Mrs. Patricia Miller, secretary; Mr. Raymond C. Fuson, first vice president; Mr. John T. Taylor, second vice president; Carl Eggert, assistant secretary. Mr. Dale L. Reaves, former president, has taken a new position in Texas.

MR. AUSTIN E. Walker has been superintendent of the Metropolitan School District of Warren Township for 17 years.

MR. EDWARD CUDDY, a past Warren Central High School principal, is assistant superintendent of secondary schools.

PICKING A CLASS ring is a big decision for many sophomores. Cheryl McLain, Pam Lee, Monica Hartley, and Shirley Amonette look at rings at a local jewelry store.

Manufacturers producing . . . retailers distributing . . . consumers purchasing . . . advertisers convincing.

The economy during the previous year has been the worst in years. When we leave Warren Central, we will have the duty and the power to make sure that the above scheme works smoothly. The following section is part of that economic balance. By supporting the Wigwam, advertisers do their part to make the system work, ending the consumer's buying search and CONFUSION.

End of school year brings end to confusion

MID-MORNING ANNOUNCEMENTS have become routine to students and teachers. The clock shows 10:30 a.m. as Mr. Clifford Gates, assistant principal, begins his daily reading of information and sports results that were excluded from the morning announcement sheet.

The long awaited end of the school year has finally arrived and what started out as a future of confusion has ended in an eventful past. Since the beginning of the year, thoughts of dances, games, and plays have all become a part of your high school past. The confusion of the new activity periods, 10:30 a.m. announcements, and the more individualized education system in which students have varied school day lengths and the choice of different English elective courses have all become expected routine throughout the school year. Everyone has now found a group in which they feel comfortable, bringing an end to CONFUSION.

REGINA NUNN, SENIOR, listens to the announcements for information about any activities she might be interested in.

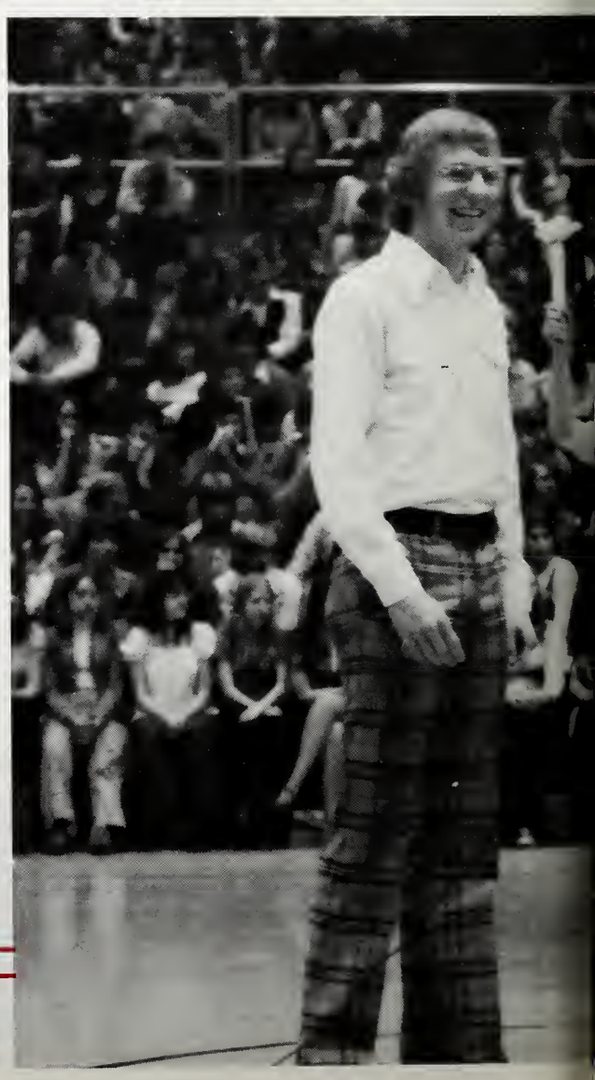
JUNIORS RUTH NIESSE and Marcie Bidgood find humor while reading in world literature, their chosen English elective class.

WHILE OBSERVING THE mass confusion of activity period, guidance counselor, Mr. William Glesing converses with Deanna Gardner, senior.

The futures of the seniors are no longer as confusing as they once were. Seniors by now have made plans for the next several years. Hopefully by attending high school, seniors have discovered what they want from their lives. They now know how they will want to pursue their goals. Students finishing their junior year will no longer be in the middle of everything. As seniors, they will have more influence in school matters than ever before. Sophomores have left the confusion of beginning high school at Warren. Even though you may have mixed feelings about it all, be ready, because each year involves new CONFUSIONS.

BILL PICKETT, SENIOR gives the crowd a smile as he walks into the gymnasium for commencement exercises.

THE WARREN FOOTBALL team shows spirit while riding in the back of a semi-trailer during the Homecoming Parade.



DURING THE MID-WINTER months, construction of the career center became more visible. The ground was broken and pipes were laid on the former practice football field, encroaching upon several parking spaces once reserved for students.

High school develops an understanding among students
